Cave Workers Encounter New Difficulties

Early Morning Predictions That Rescue Party Would Be in Cavern at Noon Give Way to Uncertainty as Work Progresses.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Sand Cave, Ky., Feb. 16.—Work of bringing Floyd Collins from the Sand Cave prison again became a "one man" job at noon today, when work was started on drilling a manhole through a solid limestone ledge five feet thick to give entrance to a possible cavern which it is expected will lead directly to the prisoner.

With this development, hope of deliverance for Collins today waned.

"It will be nightfall before we will be able to say definitely what obstacles this expected cavern will present," officials said.

Difficulties encountered in timbering the lateral tunnel somewhat delayed progress, but this finally was completed and the work of digging was resumed at 10 o'clock. This is the quickest part of the operations.

By 10:30 a. m., the character of the loose material coming from the excavation in the lateral tunnel had changed from wet mud and rock to a drier, sandy-like formation. This followed out the predictions of geologists as to the nature of the earth probably surrounding Collins's prison chamber.

It seemed at this time that at almost any moment workmen's picks would crash through into the long-looked-for opening.

At 11 o'clock military authorities took a telephone wire instrument down into the shaft for installation at the extreme end of the lateral passage. Over this will come the words: "Collins found."

At 11 o'clock workers in the lateral passage came to a group of boulders, cemented together by nature.

Removal of this slightly hindered progress.

New Difficulties Encountered.

Difficulties met in timbering the lateral tunnel being cut to Collins's prison chamber brought another change in the time estimate on his deliverance at noon today, the time at which an early morning statement had declared Collins would be reached.

By noon, officials had become wary of definite predictions and would not say that "any moment" might send a workman's pick crashing through into the cavern which it is expected will lead to the narrow chamber in which Collins has lain imprisoned for 17 days.

Crowd Gathered Early.

Shortly before 9 o'clock the crowd had begun to gather. Word that rescue was near at hand had spread over the country side.

The camp inside the barrier was tense with excitement. Bells on the many field telephones nailed to trees and posts in the pit jangled sharply and men jumped nervously at the sound.

Morning Predictions.

Collins's deliverance was set definitely for noon in a statement issued at 7:30 a. m., by Adjutant General James A. Kehoe.

General Kehoe said only two or three feet of loose earth and rock separated diggers in the shaft from the cavern which it was expected would lead to the passage way in which Collins lies trapped.

The bucket brigade used in the early days of digging for removing dirt was revived today. Mud taken from the lateral tunnel was passed from man to man. The method, Carmichiel said, slowed progress to a cubic yard an hour.

Official Statement Cautious.

This morning's official statement, issued at 8 a. m., had a more hopeful tone than any given out for days. It contained the same cautious phrasing of its predecessors.

While it hinted that Collins's liberation was near, it added that ten hours might pass before he were freed. In this respect it was at variance with General Kehoe's statement.

A formal medical commission probably will be empanelled to give to the world the detailed medical statement on Collins whether he be found alive or dead.

Members of the commission, it was said today, probably will be Dr. William Hazlett, of St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago; Major M. M. Mosh, representing Governor William Fields, and Dr. C. C. Howard, of Glasgow, Kentucky.

McCardle Held For Grand Jury

Foxhall Avenue Man Charged With Driving Car While Intoxicated—He Had Collided With a Broadway Trolley Car, Injuring Self and Frank Duffy.

John McCardle, a bookkeeper residing on Foxhall avenue, was arrested by Sergeant Phinney today on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. In police court before Judge Harry E. Schirick, McCardle waived examination and was held to await the action of the next grand jury. Bail was fixed at $500 and furnished. The warrant on which McCardle was arrested was issued on complaint of Officer William Hess.

Officer Hess was walking down Broadway, and when near Foxhall avenue saw McCardle drive past at a fast rate of speed. Then the officer heard a crash and rushed to the scene and found that McCardle had collided with a Broadway trolley car, just below Brewster street. This was on February 7.

In the car with McCardle was Frank Duffy of Port Ewen. Both men were injured and were rushed to the Benedictine Hospital. Duffy is still at the hospital, but is expected to be able to leave within a few days.

After colliding with the trolley car the automobile was swung completely around, narrowly missing hitting a big tree and landing partly on the sidewalk. No one in the trolley car was injured.

Restore Franc to Pre-War Basis

French Chamber of Deputies Told Urgent Necessity Exists for Such Action to Assure Domestic Tranquility and Prosperity.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 16.—An urgent necessity exists that the franc shall be restored to its pre war basis, the chamber of deputies was told today by General Viollette, chairman of the finance commission.

General Viollette said his opinion was shared both by the government and a majority of the parliamentary finance commission.

General Viollette's statement was a reply to a declaration by Deputy Emile Borels that depletion of the franc was as dangerous as inflation. He demanded that the franc be stablized at the present rate of exchange. This, he said would assure domestic tranquility and prosperity.

Deputy Michel Landry warned foreign speculators the Morgan loan would be used to counteract attacks against the franc. He proposed a "domestic consolidating loan." This, he said, should be on the basis of a loan without interest, a lottery, bonds or a gold franc loan.

Deputy Marcel Herand defended the financial policy of former Premier Poincare. This brought a reply from Finance Minister Clementel. He said:

"It is an incontestable fact that our predecessors' policy of excessive loans was calamitons. If it had continued it would have been fatal."

Premier Herriot told the chamber he had worked out with Minister Clementel a plan for the defense of the franc. This, he said, would restore confidence. It was reported Herriot would demand a repeal of the Poincare tax dodging law. The law was never enforced, but tax dodgers feared it would be and sold French bonds and exported francs to buy foreign securities, it was said. This caused the franc to fall, exports said.

APPROVE HUMPHREY FOR TRADE COMMISSION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The nomination of William E. Humphrey of Seattle, as a member of the Federal Trade commission, was approved today by the Senate Interstate Commerce commission.

The appointment has been tied up for nearly six weeks while the committee conducted an investigation into Humphrey's connections with Lambert interests.

WARREN NOMINATION MEETS MORE DELAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The nomination of Charles B. Warren as attorney general encountered further delay today when the Senate judiciary committee again failed to act upon it. Indications were that action on the nomination would be postponed until the new congress convenes March 4.

Tuesday evening at its home on Hone street, Rapid Hose Company, No. 1, will hold the first of a series of dances. Music will be furnished by the company's orchestra and refreshments will be on sale. The public is cordially invited. A good time is promised. Dancing from eight to twelve.

In Police Court.

Raymond Carnes, a young man arrested on a charge of stealing some accessories from the salvaged car of Morris Miller, which was recently raised from the bottom of the Rondout creek by H. Kline, had his hearing adjourned to next week in police court. The cash bail of $100 was continued.

MOTHER KILLS SON AND SELF WITH POISON

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Little Falls, N. Y., Feb. 16.—Mrs. Leslie DeGraw died today of a disinfecting poison taken last night. Her son, Eugene, two years old, died last night. She fed him the poison, police said. She left notes saying she was overcome by the difficulties of existence. She was recently separated from her husband.

ALBANY BOY CRUSHED TO DEATH BY TRUCK

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16.—John Motler, aged six, was crushed to death by an auto truck in front of School 2 on Chestnut street this afternoon. He was playing in the street with several other youngsters, and, according to the driver of the truck, ran directly in front of the machine.

Nations Race for Naval Supremacy

Five Signatory Powers to Washington Treaty Have 389 Warships Building and Projected, Compared With 226 Ships in 1914.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Feb. 16.—Naval supremacy holds the foremost place in the British mind today, because of the forthcoming naval budget. One faction wants an increased appropriation to build cruisers, another wants tax reduction and a pared naval expense bill.

A new race for naval supremacy is under way, according to the Express, which says the five signatory powers at Washington have 389 warships, building and projected, compared with but 226 ships, building and projected 1914.

France is considering the construction of two 17,500 ton battle cruisers, a move she may make under the Washington treaty, which permits her 35,000 tons of new major ships up to 1927, the Express said.

If France builds these ships, the newspaper continues, other nations will be forced to compete.

Considerable prominence has been given to Captain Sorb's suggestion in the Parisian press that France prepare to enforce submarine blockade against England in the event of war.

The other side of picture is presented by Former Commander Kenworthy, member of Parliament, who says: "Our strength is so overwhelming against any possible enemy, we can afford to go slowly in construction."

The question of sea supremacy becomes more and more important. There is little doubt that Great Britain would welcome the calling of a new disarmament conference by President Coolidge.

Coolidge Plans Series of Trips

Tentative Acceptance of Invitations Will Take President to Various Parts of United States During Spring and Summer.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Following the departure of congress from Washington on March 4, President Coolidge in all likelihood will take a series of trips out into the country that will spread over the spring and summer.

The White House engagement book contains a number of "tentative acceptances."

Points that Mr. Coolidge probably will visit during the next few months include either Lexington or Boston, Mass., New York city, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Ann Arbor, Mich., and possibly Texas.

American editors and publishers will have their annual dinner in New York on April 22, and Mr. Coolidge may take that in.

The most definite engagement thus far is with the Norse-American Centennial celebration to be held June 8, on the state fair grounds at Minneapolis, St. Paul.

Perhaps the most urgent invitation that has been received at the White House in many days came from the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, which will have their annual convention in Houston, Texas, May 9-14.

Legion Banquet Causes Trouble

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rockville, Maryland, Feb. 16.—This town and county are divided into two hostile camps today—all because of the annual banquet given by the American Legion Post.

Following the banquet, the Post chaplain, the Rev. Nolan B. Harman, Jr., resigned, and published a letter to the Post saying the entertainment was an affront to his ministerial dignity and his devotion to the constitution.

Dr. Harman said there was liquor drunk at the banquet and "dancing girls" imported from Washington to add spice to the show.

Catholic Pilgrims Start for Rome

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, Feb. 16.—The steamship Ohio, carrying Cardinal O'Connell and 585 pilgrims on a Holy Year visit to Rome, was on the high seas today.

Radiograms from the "pilgrim ship" stated that much fog was being encountered.

Twenty-five thousand persons gathered at Commonwealth pier last night to bid "Godspeed" to the pilgrims.

DuPont Increases Dividend Rate.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 16.—Directors of the E. I. DuPont de Nemours Company placed the common stock on a 10 per cent dividend basis today when they declared a dividend of 2½ per cent payable to stockholders of record March 2. Since September, 1922, the company has been paying 8 per cent, prior to which time six per cent was paid.

Germany Engaged In Buying Spree

American Commercial Attache Reports Large Excess of Imports Over Exports, Due To Extension of Foreign Credits.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Germany is engaged in a great buying "spree" and is massing an enormous quantity of materials, according to cable dispatches to the department of commerce today from Commercial Attache C. E. Herring at Berlin.

"Foreign trade figures for 1924 show an adverse trade balance that breaks all records," Herring said. "The excess of imports over exports for the year was 2,769,600,000 reichsmarks, compared to the pre-war average of less than a billion marks."

"The steady and unhealthy enlargement of the adverse balance is hciefly due to the extension of foreign credits." Herring declared.

"Little prospect is seen for sufficient increase in exports of finished goods during the immediate future to compensate for the abnormally high import of goods and raw materials." Heavy export of capital into Germany, principally from the United States is taking the growing credit inflation beyond control of the Reichs bank, according to department's information.

Inflation in Germany may be followed by a serious collapse which would weaken her ability to meet Dawes plan obligations, some officials thought. They declined to comment on the significance of the tremendous import of raw materials and the abnormally low export figures.

Believe Six Lost When Vessel Sinks

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Gloucester, Mass., Feb 16.—Captain Peter Dunsly and six members of the crew of the Gloucester fishing schooner Republic, were believed to have been lost when the vessel was cut down in the fog off the Nova Scotia coast by a three masted schooner. News of the sea tragedy was received here today by wireless from Cape Sable to owners of the Republic.

The wireless message said the Republic sank almost immediately after the crash. The fishermen put off in dories. Captain Dunsky and the six of the crew were in one dory. They disappeared in the fog. Their comrades searched for them, but without success.

After hours of rowing the remainder of the crew reached Cape Sable.

SENTIMENT STIMULATES GOULD'S FORMER WIFE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 16.—Princess Viora's search, with police aid, for the black pearl set which she lost from a ring while in the "Abbey de Theleme" with Georges Carpentier last night, is stimulated by the gem's sentimental rather than intrinsic value, she told International News Service today. She said the jewel was worth about 150,000 francs, or about $8,000.

"I didn't lose a necklace, as was at first reported," she said. "Only the single black pearl. It fell out of my ring, precluding the possibility of theft."

The Princess Viora was Miss Helen M. Kelly before her marriage to Gould. She divorced him and married Ralph H. Thomas, and after Thomas's death became the wife of Prince Nouroddin Viora, one of the claimants to the Albanian throne. She divorced the prince in March, 1921.

Threaten Program by Filibuster

Senate Minority Opposed to Administration Bills and May Doom Program to Defeat—Four Important Bills Involved.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb 16.—The sixty-eighth congress entered the home stretch of its legislative career today with the administration's program for adjournment March 4, endangered by the threat of filibusters.

The threatened disruption came from the senate where, a small but militant minority voiced bitter opposition to the Republican program. In the house there was no cause for alarm.

The situation confronting administration leaders was this: Each bill on their program has a distinct majority in its support, but a fighting minority opposition. On different bills the membership of the minority varies. If the administration can manoever the legislative procedure so that each fight is centered directly on a single issue, the whole program can be enacted. If these moves fail and the various opposition groups unite in a common filibuster, the administration's program is doomed.

Four important measures were involved in the tangled situation. These were the Isle of Pines treaty, the Bursum emergency army officers' retirement bill, the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill and a bill for government purchase of the Cape Cod ship canal.

A 48 hour armistice was declared today in the administration's drive for final enactment of the Underwood bill for private leasing of the government's $150,000,000 Muscle Shoals project.

The bill be called up in the senate Wednesday for final action. After the senate has approved the bill, it must be repassed by the house.

Administration leaders were confident of enacting the bill.

Direct Marketing Again Successful

New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Demonstrates Ability to Dispose of $23,000,000 Bond Issue Direct to Investors.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Feb. 16.—The success of the offering of $23,000,000 of 6 per cent refunding bonds of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, announced today by officials of that company, was hailed in financial circles today as a triumph for the system of direct marketing of securities.

The New Haven Railroad, faced with the necessity of meeting the maturity of $23,000,000 of 7 per cent bonds on April first, had the choice of a number of alternatives. One was to pay a certain percentage of the bonds at the due date and borrow the balance through the regular banking channels. A number of prominent New England business men suggested that an opportunity be given investors to take bonds direct from the road, some of them to be paid for in cash and some to be exchanged for their holdings of 7 per cents.

Stock of the New York, New Haven and Hartford was the conspicuous strong spot in a violently reactionary movement of prices in the stock market today.

Woman Who "Peached" Slain By Sam Goldman

Mamie Joy Shot in Her Brother's Saloon Sunday Night—Slayer Says She "Peached" When He Was Arrested on Charge of Carrying Concealed Weapon Last December.

"She peached on me," said Samuel Goldman, better known to the police as "Tuttle" Goldman, when he was arrested Sunday evening in front of Jack Vanoy's place at No. 16 Hasbrouck avenue, following the shooting of Miss Mamie Joy of No. 9 East Pierpont street, in the saloon of her brother, Alderman William Joy, at No. 15 West Strand. This morning "Tuttle" was held by Judge Harry E. Schirick on a charge of murder to await the action of the next grand jury. Owing to the fact that it is a murder charge, "Tuttle" was not admitted to bail.

His victim, Mamie Joy, who is 30 years old, died five minutes after being admitted to the Kingston City Hospital where she was rushed after the shooting, which the police say was one of the most cold blooded murders committed here in some time.

"Tuttle" a Bad Actor.

According to the police, "Tuttle" is a bad actor. The reason the murderer assigned for the shooting was his arrest last December on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. He was arrested at that time on the complaint of Joe Baptiste, who claimed that Tuttle entered his place downtown and threatened to shoot him. When arraigned before Judge Harry E. Schirick in police court at that time he was held to await the action of the next grand jury, and bail was fixed at $2,500 which he furnished.

Preceding the Shooting.

According to the story as gathered from eyewitnesses by the police, it was shortly after 5 o'clock when Tuttle entered Joy's saloon on West Strand, and found Mamie in a rear room talking with Jack Daley of Rosendale.

As Tuttle passed the entrance to the inner room, Mamie looked up and saw him, and, according to Tuttle, she called him a vile name. In his confession of the murder to Sergeant Phinney made shortly after his arrest, Tuttle said that after Mamie had called him the vile name he had left the saloon and gone to the "High Road" which leads from Hasbrouck avenue over the brow of the hill into Ponckhockie, and got a revolver he had secreted there.

Pocketing the weapon, which was a Harrington Richardson five-shot revolver of .38 calibre, he returned to the saloon.

Walked to Rear Room.

As Tuttle entered the saloon the second time he found several others there, including Joe Baptiste and another white woman known as Marjorie Miller.

Joe Baptiste said that he asked Tuttle what he would have and that Tuttle said he would have a glass of beer.

When the glass was placed on the bar in front of Tuttle, he drank about half of it and then setting the glass down on the bar he walked to the rear of the saloon where there are two small inner rooms furnished with tables and chairs.

In the first room sat Mamie and Daley still talking together at a table.

Drew Gun and Fired.

Joe Baptiste said that he did not dream there was going to be any trouble and thought that Tuttle was on his way to the toilet, which was further back in the rear of the saloon. He saw Tuttle stop at the entrance to the room in which Mamie and Daley sat and then saw Tuttle draw the gun and fire.

Fired Second Shot.

As the sound of the explosion crashed through the saloon, Mamie staggered out of the room with her hands high above her head and screaming.

She staggered back of the bar and then Tuttle fired the second time and the woman collapsed to the floor.

Held Others at Bay.

As Baptiste and the others in the saloon started to surge toward the murderer, Tuttle waived the [illegible] around and threatened to [illegible] all to hell [illegible] and then [illegible] of the saloon.

Alderman Joy told Sergeant Phinney that Tuttle had shot his sister, and the sergeant hurried back to police headquarters to send out a general alarm to round up Goldman when he received a call from Officer Entrott asking that the patrol be sent to Hasbrouck avenue and East Strand, as he had Tuttle under arrest.

Gun Found Later.

Tuttle did not have the gun on him when arrested by Officer Entrott who had found him in front of No. 16 Hasbrouck avenue but later Officer Robert Healey found the gun hidden under some old newspapers in Jack Vanoy's place. When found it contained two empty cartridges. The three other chambers were loaded.

Tuttle Confessed to Murder.

Tuttle was closely questioned at police headquarters and did not hesitate in making a confession. The confession was taken down by Sergeant Phinney and after it was read over to Tuttle he signed it. It was also signed by others who were present at the time Tuttle confessed.

Said Mamie "Peached."

Questioned as to why he had shot the girl, Tuttle stated that she had "peached" on him over the trouble he had had with Joe Baptiste and that he had been holding it against her ever since.

Entrott Arrested Him Twice.

It was Officer Winfield Entrott who had arrested Tuttle last December on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, and it was Entrott who picked up Tuttle's trail after he had shot Mamie Joy and found him on Hasbrouck avenue.

District Attorney Notified.

District Attorney Frederick G. Traver was notified of the murder and ordered an autopsy performed on the body of the woman. At the city hospital, Dr. A. A. Stern and Dr. E. E. Norwood performed the autopsy. They found two bullet wounds in the abdomen, both passing through the stomach. One bullet had severed the main artery. The wounds had caused a hemorrhage which had caused death.

Coroner W. Norman Conner issued the burial permit and turned the body over to Undertaker N. D. J. Murphy.

Quick Work of Police.

The police department had ascertained the main particulars of the murder, and arrested the murderer within a quarter of an hour after the shooting, which was remarkably quick work.

Goldman is thirty years old.

Policyholders Pay Huge Tax

Only Four Cents of Each Dollar Collected is Used for Purposes Connected With Insurance—Singled Out for Special Taxation.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, Feb. 16.—Policyholders of the state of New York paid in insurance licenses, taxes and fees for the year 1923 $5,972,329.95 of which amount only $551,544.08 was used for the expenses of the state insurance department, according to a bulletin issued by the Insurance Department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The remainder of the amount collected in the form of insurance taxes went into the general state funds.

The practice of making the policyholder bear the burden of taxes, the general proportion of which are expended for general purposes, is growing among the states. The Federal government abolished the tax on insurance premiums, which was devised as an emergency war measure, in 1921. But the trend in the states has been in the contrary direction.

"The upward trend of state taxation is clearly seen by a comparison of 1923 statistics with those from the years 1915 to 1922," says the insurance department in its bulletin. "The total of licenses, taxes and fees collected in 1922, $59,248,527.35, is greater by $6,726,032.11 than the sum collected in the same states in 1922. The increase was practically universal among the states, since 40 out of 47 jurisdictions reporting received more in 1923 than in the previous year. On the contrary, the expenditures for insurance department service during the same period decreased in 23 states and the District of Columbia."

For the year 1923 of the total amount collected by all the states in the form of special insurance, 96.11 per cent were used for other state purposes than the maintenance of the insurance departments.

"When policyholders are singled out for special taxation," the bulletin continues, "the amounts collected should be used for their benefit. Actually this is not the case. The amount expended for insurance department service in 1923 was less than 4 per cent of all collected. In other words, out of every dollar paid to the states by policyholders, more than 96 cents was used for general purposes, none of which was so closely related to insurance as to justify special taxation of policyholders for its support."

FROM THE TOURIST ANGLE.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The suitability of clothes to the occasion is a theme on which one could hardly dilate at too great length. The traveler has the importance of this borne on him constantly, and often feels, even with a sufficient wardrobe, that the selection was not chosen wisely. Recently a man was heard consulting with the one in charge of his bookings, concerning the weight and sort of clothes he should take on a trip to unfamiliar territory. It was a sensible precaution, and one women should follow.

In Havana, for instance, the mecca of a good many tourists at this season, it is always easy to spot tourists because of their summer clothes—often of the resort type—while Havanna, being a city and not a resort, the residents there wear city clothes, excepting when at the adjacent clubs and so on.

It has been borne in on most travelers that a black satin or faille dress is an excellent choice, now that one cannot fall back on the tailored suit. There are many women who look best in straight, one-piece frocks rather plainly made, and such a frock of satin or faille will more than justify its existence.

One of the style messages a trip to Havana furnishes is that the untrimmed satin dress is of great moment, and one of the very newest ideas for evening. After seasons of elaborate beading and embroidery, it is a relief to find the unrelieved frock and interesting to note how details of tailoring have crept into frocks intended for the frivolous occasions of life.

Ombre satin has been added to the already long list of shaded materials and a frock which ran the gamut of corn bluet shades was almost severely tailored and untrimmed, and consequently struck a note of interest in a room full of chiffon frocks in godets and tiers. It was very short—as all chic frocks again are—unbelted, sleeveless, with a small, untrimmed armhole, and had a neckline which was not only high at the back, but had a turnover satin collar, the ends of which formed scarf-like bands falling at either side of the front. It is typical of the present appreciation of good tailoring, as in all manner of clothes.

ASHOKAN.

Ashokan, Feb. 15.—The M. E. Ladies' Aid Society will hold an all day rag bee at the parsonage on Thursday, February 19. Members are requested to bring rags to sew for rugs for the coming fair and to bring some article of food toward the dinner. Please meet at 10 o'clock.

In spite of the stormy weather on Wednesday night, the Adult Bible Class held at the M. E. parsonage was well attended. At the close a social time was enjoyed and bountiful refreshments were served by the social committee.

Mrs. Ethea Crispell visited her brother, Chester Lyons, during the past week.

Mrs. J. Atkins called on Mrs. C. O. Davis on Friday afternoon.

To get quick cooking plus creamy richness

Get QUICK QUAKER— Cooks in 3 to 5 minutes

Standard full size and weight packages—
Medium: 1½ pounds; Large: 3 pounds, 7 oz.

Your grocer now has two kinds of Quaker Oats—the kind you have always known and Quick Quaker.

EVERYBODY knows what Quaker flavor means in oats. For richness, for smooth deliciousness, no other has ever compared.

Now we offer it in a quick cooking oats—Quick Quaker.

It cooks in 3 to 5 minutes; makes the richest breakfast now the quickest.

Millions have turned to this new Quaker delight.

Try it yourself. See how wonderful it is.

Look for the Quaker on the label

That means Quaker flavor—the "hot oats and milk" breakfasts doctors are urging—in 3 to 5 minutes.

That means the superfine oats you want—the finest grown, the most delicious in all the world.

"INDIVIDUALITY OF DRESS"

Beware the Drooping Bonnet If You've a Drooping Nose

One of the popular new spring hat styles is the unbound felt, narrow at the back and front and wider and drooping at the sides, with a slight dress in front. This hat is lovely on the right person, but it cannot be worn by the girl with a downward drooping nose and pointed chin, as the lines tend to pull down converging at the chin and lengthening and sharpening her features.

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE MODE —PRESENT AND TO COME.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

A good deal of publicity has been given the partiality for mannish clothes, which is again being evidenced particularly in coats. Severity of too trying a type is offset by frocks which are gayly printed, frivolously ruffled, or pleated, and in many ways as distractingly feminine as a gown may be.

Such gowns are sometimes unexpectedly revealed under the plainest of coats, and sometimes they are revealed without the effort of removing the coat, since the transparent coat—yes, on severely tailored lines, too—is among those to be encountered.

Pompeian red is a color frequently in print, in reports of functions on both sides of the Atlantic, and all manner of red accessories are being worn, from heels on one's dancing slippers to a boutonniere in one's lapel.

Apple green and all shades of orchid, as well as the softer pastel blues are colors which are registering not so much in spite of white, but because of it, since white so often provides the background. Flower motifs are much in use, but the latest French fad runs to true lovers' knots—a sentimental touch found in jewelers' and couturiers' collections.

The scintillating sequin has threatened to make more dazzling our array of evening frocks, but to date paillettes have been used with restraint instead of for the entire surface of the gown. They must be included in the many types of beading being worn, another interesting type being executed in opalescent beads of a sort favored by Chanel—who has considerable success this season—and not alone in sports frocks. Chanel's jumper dress is one of the conspicuous successes of the season, and is often made with a semi-circular or pleated skirt, the fulness invariably occurring at the front.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Will Continue Baseball Probe

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Feb. 16.—Investigation into the alleged baseball bribe scandal in the National League will continue, District Attorney Joab Banton announced today in a conference with Judge K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner. Banton would not say whether the case of Jimmy O'Connell, former New York Giants outfielder, alleged to have offered a Philadelphia player $500 not to "bear down" in a game with the Giants, would be presented to the grand jury.

"Judge Landis has offered us every available ball player, if necessary in the conduct of our investigation," Banton said. "These men will come here at the expense of the National commission and the investigation will continue."

Judge Landis said he would leave for Chicago this afternoon.

SLIPPERY PAVEMENT CAUSED AUTO MISHAP

Mrs. Charles S. Keefe of Upper Lucas avenue, while driving her large closed automobile on her way home Sunday night, crashed through the board fence on the Lucas avenue side of the Moses Schoonmaker property at 157 Green street. A gate, two posts and a section of the fence was knocked down. Fortunately a tree was missed being struck. Mrs. Keefe was not injured. The car was slightly damaged.

Mrs. Keefe was unable to guide the car at the turn from Green street into Lucas avenue, owing to the slippery condition of the asphalt pavement, because of ice on the road. The car became unmanagable and went diagonally across the street over the curb and sidewalk, crashing into the fence.

Draws Sordid Sketch of London Slum L

About nine o'clock the miserab little fish shops of London, wh punctuate the obscure facades of t long tenement rows like big lamps, a crowded with women and childr carrying dishes and baskets, writ Alfons Paquet in the Frankfurter Ze ung.

Even as late as ten o'clock childre play on the pavements and wear dowdy women sit on the steps of thei tiny unlighted houses, whose window glint vacant and dusty into the darkness. Women also gather in clusters on the street corners. Silhouettes of men stand out in front of brightly lighted soup and baked potato caravans. Candy stores and fruit shops are still open.

In the middle of a row of darkened show windows electric lights shine brightly on the varnished coffin of an undertaking parlor. All these little details stand out sharp and ruthless, as they do in China.

Until eleven o'clock the corner pubs are packed with humanity. Each has three or more entrances leading to a little narrow room separated from the private bar by a light partition extending from the wall to the counter. The bartender with his barmaids presides in the middle of this horseshoe counter, directing things in a fog of tobacco smoke and whisky fumes.

Men stand as closely together on the sawdust-covered floor as their half-drained glasses on the wet, narrow ledge in front of them. Dirty hands empty again and again the pot of highly salted shrimps beside the door.

Yard Distance From Royal Nose to Thumb

More than eight hundred years ago there lived a king—an English king one Henry, surnamed Beauclerc, Alexander McAdie relates in the Atlantic Monthly. Early in his reign gray bearded councilors declared that in their opinion it would be nice to have a measure of length called a yard; and this should be the distance between the tip of royal Henry's nose and the end of the royal thumb.

The king's nose may have been large or small or tilted upward. Moreover, the distance may have been measured when the king's nose was swollen, for royal noses can hit a doorpost in the dark just like common noses. And the royal thumb may have been stubby or spatulate. Henry too, might have playfully extended his fingers and wiggled them with his thumb not quite at, but very near the end of his royal nose; or he might have wiggled eight fingers with the thumb of one hand touching the little finger of the other. Twirling his fingers thus he could delicately convey to the court scientists who were conducting the royal triangulation just what he thought of them. But at all bouts the deed was done and the Englishmen of the Twelfth century achieved a yard.

Dog Carried Danger Signal

A motorist who was driving through a small town in Canada one night was astonished to see a little red light dancing about close to the ground on the road ahead. As he drew nearer he saw that it was an electric bulb fed from a dry-cell battery fastened on the back of a little dog. The owner, a woman who was walking nearby, explained that the dog refused to stay off the streets at night, and that to keep him from being run over she had contrived the canine tail light, so to speak. No doubt the dog will soon become familiar with the rules of the road—will slow down and bark at all crossings, keep always on the proper side of the highway and never go more than 40 miles an hour except when he sees a cat ahead.—Youth's Companion.

Brass Buttons, Loops to Match, on Spring Coat

A smart military coat with a novel fastening, describes this exquisitely tailored garment for spring. It is of blue kasha cloth in a dark tone, faced with the same material in gray, to give military effect. The feature is the long row of closely spaced brass buttons with gray loops to match.

Variety in Neckwear Is Sign Decorations Remain

Neckwear has come to stay and no better indication of its continued popularity can be found than in the immense variety of dress accessories that find shelter under that name. Just as dresses themselves show a bewildering variety of fabrics and combinations of materials, so neckwear comes in almost every material from the finest laces, nets and chiffons to broadcloth and even leather.

The latter styles are largely the result of the boyish models that dominate the world of dress. The severe and smart flannels of the moment are best completed by linen or broadcloth collars and cuffs that content themselves with being simply smart and plain. These are usually shown in sets comprising a round collar fastening closely around the throat and neat cuffs that do not flare like the big gauntlets of last year. Sometimes they are edged with Irish crochet, sometimes small embroidered motifs appear on them and then again they disdain all elaboration.

Something new in tailored neckwear are sets of striped linen, softly tinted stripes, severely plain except for rows of small crochet buttons. The cuffs to these sets are particularly convenient as they fasten with buttons and loops over the sleeve of either a dress or a coat.

No less fascinating and much more becoming to some types, are the soft ruffings that unroll to the desired length for dress trimming. These come in all the colored chiffons that harmonize with the season's dress colors. There is a soft rose red for the dark blue frock, tan for brown, cream for black and so on indefinitely.

Lovely Scarfs in All Colors and Materials

In scarfs now so commonly worn the opportunity for color harmony is, indeed, grateful, for the scarfs are made of every material under the sun. Those of wool or wool and silk for protective use are woven in such combinations as blue and violet, rose and violet, gray and scarlet, gray and yellow. Mufflers of potash mauve shade to dahlia purple, to light rose to deep crimson. Black is combined in effective manner with white, with orange, vermilion, and so on through an elaborate and entertaining list of color schemes.

Some of the evening scarfs are enchanting and serve to embellish any costume. Every imaginable color, whatever may be individually most suitable, is used, and the designs are of every conceivable character. Floral patterns, always so gently pretty, are done in natural colors on charming lengths of crepe, chiffon or marquisette of white, black or color. The pastel shades and vivid colors are equally popular, the choice being apparently always that which is most becoming.

White is always flattering when cleverly treated in the application of design in colors. Evening shades have never been more enchanting; greens from the palest sea-foam to jade; blues of every kind; periwinkle, aquamarine, turquoise, rose, yellow, violet—all are lovely.

The conventional patterns taken from the motifs of heavy peasant embroideries are done with skill on some of the handsomer scarfs, and batik still retains its vogue.

Trend in Bonnets

The small hats most popular in Paris today are following the helmet type in many instances. At least they have the center ridge so familiar in the war gear of the poilu, one of the latest is a toque of black crepe de chine, with such a ridge, bordered and trimmed with black satin ribbon.

The old country mansion had been turned into a clubhouse and the surrounding sylvan park into a golf course. The members were extraordinarily proud of the luxurious club with the previous owner's hunting trophies still adorning the walls.

One day a player was showing a visitor round the place.

"I say, this is fine," said the stranger, as he stepped into the oak-paneled hall. He waved his hand in the direction of the mounted heads of stags, caribou and moose. "Tell me, did they kill all these fellows with golf [illegible]"

BRYAN AND THE WAR DEBTS.

There is basis for William J. Bryan's description of the world's accumulation of war debts as a dangerous irritant, but when he says that Europe has no intention of paying its debts to the United States he ignores the important fact that Great Britain, against the wishes of some of its citizens, has determinedly bent its back to the load. Presumably Mr. Bryan does not include Great Britain in "Europe," for he recognizes that it would not do to cancel the obligations of other debtors while requiring payment of the British debt, and goes on to recommend the cancellation of all the war debts, including England's in order to purchase "priceless peace." Let the United States sacrifice eleven billion dollars' worth of bad debts, and then the nations—Mr. Bryan thinks—will scrap their navies, disband their armies, and thereafter live in the security of permanent peace.

Eleven billion dollars' worth of doubtful debts would be a small price to pay for such a happy culmination, but would such a contract be lived up to, or ever be agreed to in the first place? Would the debtor nations yield so far in order to be free of debts which Mr. Bryan says they have no intention of paying in any case? It would be yielding much—such agreement to general abandonment of military and naval preparations for war; for before consenting to do so the nations would have to get rid, in some way, of their fear of being helpless against attack. This fear has been and still is very real, particularly in the case of France, with a hereditary and numerically superior enemy on its very border, an enemy that has invaded France twice within 44 years and is now recovering its great strength for who knows what. Even the gift of eleven billions in cash out of the United States treasury could not change such conditions or put to rest the fear of proving the weaker in a clash of arms.

Though war debts may be an irritant, as Mr. Bryan says, the burden of such debts may also be regarded as a salutary warning against more of the experiments on the battle field. Between actual cancellation and the loss holding out for every penny there may be a wiser middle course that would involve both generosity and shrewd business calculation. It appears that the British government has decided on such a middle course. The news comes that Great Britain, after sturdily assuming its whole debt to the United States, has offered France "an apparent reduction of almost two-thirds of the French debt to England" as a basis of settlement. Great Britain, recognizing that France can not pay all, prefers to get a part of her money and be regarded as generous than to get none of it and be looked upon as a hard creditor—which latter fate promises to be ours if our "last red cent" spokesmen at Washington are allowed to have their way. Cancellation would not bring the results Mr. Bryan hopes to see, and, moreover, that policy will never be agreed to at Washington; but a generous adjustment might be achieved, with beneficial results on all sides.

Learn-to-Swim Week in early February may work down about Miami and Palm Beach, but is likely to be neglected in snow-covered New England and the below-zero Northwest. Are the "Weeks" such an elbowing multitude that their pushers are glad of the chance to squeeze in at any old time?

Sixty-year-old John Irwin of Los Angeles complained in court that his wife, also aged sixty, "got to running around with other men" and declared that she "didn't care a 'continental' if she never settled down." And yet there is a tradition that in warm climates people grow old before their time.

When Richard III offered his "Kingdom for a horse" he little dreamed of an age when much more than the worth of his kingdom would be given for horseless carriages in a single year. The world spent three billion dollars for motor cars in 1924.

The "prophet of doom" who named February 6 has since explained that he meant the world would take a week to get ready to go up in smoke. How will he manage to keep before the public when the week ended without a break-up?

The news comes that seats in a St. Petersburg, Fla., church must be engaged in advance at $50 for the season. If wealthy tourists can thus be convinced that church-going is expensive as well as fashionable, the scheme may work.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

THE ENLARGED THYROID.

The enlarged thyroid gland in the front of the neck is still an object of interest to everybody.

So much has been learned about it that it would seem that there was nothing more to be learned. Yet physicians and surgeons will be the first to admit that some aspects of thyroid trouble has them puzzled. Something has got into the system that so affects the thyroid gland, that the secretion it manufactures becomes altered.

Now this secretion has as its work the regulating of certain processes in the body, that is as to the speed with which these processes are carried on.

The gland itself grows larger in size, and the supporting structure or frame work becomes greatly thickened.

This thickening of the frame work naturally takes up the room of the glandular or soft substance. Now just as the liver stores up sugar for immediate and future use, so does the thyroid gland store up iodine. But owing to the framework taking up the place or room of gland substances, only a fraction of the normal amount of iodine is found in many of these enlarged thyroids. Therefore most investigators now believe that the secretion manufactured by the thryoid has not sufficient iodine in it.

The treatment for these cases varies greatly. Many get better completely, and others are greatly improved by the removal of part of the gland.

That rest, mentally and physically, works great improvement has been proven in many cases.

The trouble with these bad cases is that everything seems to be working at a feverish haste. There is the loss of the regulating mechanism, the secretion of juice from the thyroid which should have the effect of steadying various functions, seems to allow things to simply run away. The patient is tired, because these actions are going on at this rate the whole twenty-four hours of the day.

Thus the heart works fast all the time, and if it is supported by plain easily digested food, and rest, the patient seems to get along fairly well.

If, however, something is wrong with the teeth, tonsils, intestine, and so forth, and some infection gets into the system, then the heart muscle may grow tired of this extra work and give trouble.

As mentioned once before, sometimes the physician in building up the general health to get ready for an operation, has seen such an improvement, that an operation has been found unnecessary.

Elting Elected Bar President

Philip Elting Is Elected President of Ulster County Bar Association at Its Annual Meeting — Banquet Largely Attended and Greatly Enjoyed.

The annual meeting and banquet of the Ulster County Bar Association was held at the Hotel Stuyvesant Saturday evening, and was pronounced by each of the fifty lawyers and guests who attended one of the most successful gatherings of the association. The appetizing menu was served excellently and addresses were of a high order and interesting, the speakers being reminiscent in their talks. Previous to the banquet the following were elected as officers: Philip Elting, president; Judge James A. Betts, vice-president; Walter J. Miller, secretary; Robert G. Groves, treasurer.

At the speaker's table with Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck, who was the toastmaster, were seated Justice Joseph Rosch, Justice Ellis J. Staley, Judge Alton B. Parker, William D. Cunningham, Philip Elting, who were the speakers of the evening, also Judge A. T. Clearwater and Howard Chipp.

The menu was as follows:

Bouillon En Tasse
Celery Queen Olives
Salted Almonds
Boiled Columbia River Salmon
Hollandaise Sauce
Pommes Dauphine
Sherbet Court Supreme
Broiled Spring Chicken
French Fried Potatoes
Green String Beans
Asparagus Salad Vinaigrette
Fancy, Ice Cream Assorted Cakes
Demi Tasse
Cigars Cigarettes

During the evening a musical program was rendered by George Schilling's orchestra. Mr. Schilling also entertaining with some vocal selections.

MELANCHTHON.

The first exposition of the Lutheran or Protestant doctrines, and the first Protestant confession of faith, were the work of Philip Melanchthon, the friend and associate of Luther, who was born in Germany 428 years ago today, February 16, 1497.

Melanchthon, whose real name was Schwartzerd, was professor of Greek in the University of Wittenberg, where Luther was professor of theology. When Luther began his assaults on the church, for which he was excommunicated, Melanchthon, like most of the other members of the faculty, sided with him and Wittenberg became the storm center of the religious revolt. In his "Loci Communes" the Professor of Greek first set forth the doctrines of Luther, and in the Augsburg confession, compiled by Melanchthon, in 1530, he set down 28 articles of faith, the first seven of which were directed against what were called the errors of Catholicism, while the remainder set forth the Lutheran creed.

FORT DONELSON.

It was the surrender of Fort Donelson by the Confederate to General U. S. Grant sixty-three years ago today that started "unconditional surrender." Grant on the road to his position as commander-in-chief of all the Union Armies, and, in a sense, that day can be regarded as one of the decisive days in the struggle twixt the north and south. General Grant was at the time of the surrender of Fort Donelson holding his commission by the slenderest of threads, and had he lost, would in all probability have been dropped from the army. But he did not lose, and later when Lincoln, tired of having his generals beaten one by one by the great Lee and the brilliant galaxy of generals under him, was seeking for a "man of iron" who did not know when he was beaten, he pitched upon Grant. As a matter of fact, there was no military necessity for the surrender of the fort to the Federals, as the Confederates had cut their way out the day before and were well on their way to safety when they were ordered back. General Forest, the cavalry commander, refusing to surrender, took all his fifteen hundred men, and as many of the infantry as cared to go with him.

It is safe to say that had the fifteen thousand splendid soldiers that were surrendered to Grant at Donelson been in the Confederate ranks in the next big action at Pittsburgh Landing (April 7th) the rebels instead of defeat there would have had victory—and who can tell how much longer the struggle would go?

MRS. HENDEE.

When Royalton, Vermont, was burned by the Indians in 1776, Mrs. Roger Hendee, a native of that place, gave proof of her remarkable courage. The Indian attack was sudden, and her husband being absent, and she being in the field, the Indians seized her children and carried them off. When Mrs. Hendee learned what had happened she immediately set out for the camp of the Indians entirely alone, and despite threats of death, she persevered in her supplications for the release of her children until the Indians finally granted her request. After seeing her own little ones to safety, she returned to the Indian camp and induced the chief to release all other children that had been carried off. The Indians were so struck with her bravery that one of them offered to carry her back to her people across a stream. She accepted the offer and returned amid the rejoicings of her neighbors to Royalton.

Vacancies in Citizens' Camps

Over Five Thousand Youths Will be Enrolled This Summer in Citizens' Military Training Camps in Second Corps Area.

Fifty-two hundred youths, from schools, farms and factories scattered throughout New York, New Jersey and Delaware, will be enrolled this summer for the Citizens' Military Training Camps in the Second Corps Area, Major General Charles P. Summerall announced at Governors Island Saturday.

This figure represents the largest number of vacancies for civilian training yet assigned to the local corps area, exceeding the allotment of last year by almost two thousand.

Camps will open July 1 and continue in operation throughout the summer. Every student is to be a volunteer and must pass the mental and physical tests adopted by the war department. Students will range from 17 to 24 years.

As a result of experience gained in conducting boys' camps during the past four years in all parts of the country, the war department plans numerous improvements designed to make the training and recreation programs more attractive to the youngsters at the 1925 camps.

Admittance, however, will be under the same conditions as during other years, General Summerall said. Food, uniforms, railroad fare to camp and return, athletic equipment and all camp facilities are furnished by the government without expense to the student.

Six camps for this corps area are named in General Summerall's announcement. Plattsburg will again be the principal camp site, young men of the first-year class being centered there, as well as advanced students in infantry studies.

Other advanced classes—called Red, White and Blue courses—will be held at Madison Barracks, N. Y., for field artillery; at Fort Hancock, N. J., for coast artillery; at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., for cavalry; at Fort DuPont, Del., for engineers, and at Camp Alfred Vail, N. J., for signal corps.

Specialists in various professions who hold commissions in the Organized Reserves will be called to duty to aid in non-military studies, under the war department's plan, the troops of the Regular Army being occupied largely with drill and shooting instruction.

It is also planned to give individual attention to the physical training of each student to correct unfavorable tendencies in the growing youth. Data compiled from records of camps of previous years is now being studied by the war department with this end in view.

The object of these camps, General Summerall declared, is to bring together young men of high type from all sections of the country on a common basis of equality and under the most favorable conditions of outdoor life; to stimulate and promote citizenship, patriotism and Americanism, and through expert physical direction, athletic coaching and military training, to benefit the young men individually and to bring them to realize their obligations to their country.

BUSINESS EXPENSES IN STATE TAX RETURNS

What business expenses are recognized in the State tax return?

This was the query put to Director Thomas M. Lynch, who expressed ready willingness to shed light on this troublesome subject.

"First, explained Mr. Lynch, "all possible stress should be laid on the lawmakers' language that only ordinary and necessary business expenses are deductible. Now, this of course does not allow the cost of capital expenditures. By these is meant such improvements to property as new windows, show-cases, tile floors, display racks or erection of balconies. When such changes are made they are considered additions to the property, subject to usual depreciation rates; their cost should never be taken out as current expenses.

"If taxpayers, both in individual and partnership returns would carry through the restriction that the business expenses must be usual in their particular trade and also necessary, they would be bothered less by inquiries from the Bureau.

"When the law, concluded the Director, "compels taxpayers in business to detail these claimed business expenses on their books of account, the income tax bureau has held further that it intended the keeping of similar records by salesmen as to the cost of meals, lodgings, excess baggage charges and railroad fares.

"We refused recently to sanction as an ordinary business expense amounts paid for compartments in sleeping cars, because the traveling man was obliged to get his full night's rest and could not be annoyed by the snores of his fellow-passengers."

CLEAN YOUR CAR WITH MUD

It Will Actually Improve The New DUCO Finish

Far from hurting Duco Finish, the fine silt contained in ordinary road mud actually improves its lustre. With a sponge and water, or even with a dry cloth, you can remove the mud and polish up the surface of Duco Finish at the same time!

Duco is made by the du Pont Company. We have tested and confirmed every claim made for it. It is an epoch-making discovery, and the only radical improvement ever made in motor car finishes.

Neither sun nor engine heat can blister Duco, grease won't corrode it, rain, snow and hot water won't streak it, and it is so hard that it is difficult to scratch. Even bumps can hardly affect it!

With Duco on your car you can laugh at weather and wear. Its beautiful lustre and smooth surface will actually improve with use. Come to our shop and see jobs we have refinished with Duco. You'll want this new finish on your car, too. It can be put on in one-third to one-half the usual time.

Whiten Cloudy Teeth

Under that film on your teeth (run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel it) are the clean, glistening teeth you envy. Combat it this way—see what pretty teeth you have.

IN the United States today, it is estimated that over half a million people a day are cleaning their teeth in a new way. These are people who used to have dull and dingy teeth. That is why you see gleaming teeth wherever your eyes turn.

Now leading dentists tell how to clear up dingy teeth. A method that supplants old type dentifrices—combats, without harsh grit, the stubborn film that covers teeth and makes them ugly.

Run your tongue across your teeth. You will feel that film. Under it are the prettier, whiter teeth you envy in others. This offers you free a 10-day tube of the way authorities advise combating it. Simply mail the coupon.

The great enemy of teeth

Film is the great enemy of tooth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the the common cause of pyorrhea.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth; you can't have healthier teeth unless you combat that film.

Obtain Pepsodent now. Don't expect the same results from old type dentifrices. Start beautifying your teeth today. Mail the coupon.

Wrong Use of Vehicle Funds

A. A. A. Protests Usage of Money Collected From Gasoline Taxation For Purposes Other Than Construction and Maintenance of Roads.

Use of funds collected from gasoline taxation for purposes other than those connected with the construction and maintenance of roads and the use and operation of motor vehicles is condemned by the American Automobile Association as an unjust discrimination against the automobile owner.

The attempt on the part of municipalities and state legislatures as has become evident in certain sections of the country, to victimize the motorist to the extent of making him bear the major portion of the burden of general improvements is an evil which "strikes at the very root of the fundamental principles of representative taxation," according to Thomas P. Henry, president of the association.

"The automobile owner is probably the most easily taxed of all our citizens," explained Mr. Henry. "He pays his personal, his municipal, county, state and federal taxes, and, in addition, his motor vehicle and gas taxes. These are perhaps all necessary and, when applied and administered properly, just and equitable. But when state and municipal officials attempt to fill the coffers of their treasuries with huge sums for general improvement, gathered in large part from additional burdens imposed on the car owner, they are treading on dangerous ground, and it is high time a stop be put to such practice.

"The American Automobile Association is unalterably opposed to any practice of taxing car owners as such for general governmental purposes, whether it be to construct a school house, acquire a public utility or grant a general increase in salaries to public officials. The money for such purposes should be raised from the entire citizenship, regardless of car ownership, and any deviation from that practice strikes at the very root of the fundamental principles of representative taxation for which this country has always stood."

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the A. A. A., a resolution was adopted stating that "the American Automobile Association believes it to be an inequality of taxation to levy upon the owners of motor cars, busses and trucks and against their use as a class, excise and other special taxes and licenses for general governmental purposes. This association urges that funds so raised be used exclusively for purposes directly connected with and related to the construction, maintenance and use of roads and the use and operation of motor vehicles."

This resolution, it was pointed out by Mr. Henry, was based on reports to national headquarters here that not a few communities were floating large bond issues for general improvements, the bonds to be payable out of funds collected in large part from gasoline and motor vehicle excises. In many cases the proceeds from these issues were to provide, among other things, for road construction and maintenance.

"Unless public officials specify to what extent sums so obtained will be used for road and motor vehicle purposes and to what extent they will be used for projects of a general nature, these general improvement bond issues," continued Mr. Henry, "will prove unpopular with the automobile owner.

"Many public officials are too prone to want to have large sums in their treasuries available for improvements. The result is that the taxpayer is taxed more heavily to pay the interest and principal, and the most easily taxed of all—the owner of an automobile, motor bus or truck—gets it the hardest."

The failure of the $75,000,000 Kentucky general improvement bond issues at the last election was cited as an example of the probable result of further attempts to place the brunt of general improvements on car owners as such. Of the sum the state proposed to raise, $50,000,000 was to be expended for the construction and maintenance of roads, and the remainder—$25,000,000—for state asylums, the university and other general purposes.

The interest and principal on the entire issue, however, were to be payable out of funds collected from a 3-cent gasoline tax to be levied upon automobiles, motor trucks and busses.

"This proposed issue was opposed not only by the automobile clubs," Mr. Henry explained, "but it failed to receive the endorsement of the municipal securities committee of the Investment Bankers' Association. The motor clubs recognized in it an effort to straddle unjustly onto the car owner $25,000,000 and more additional taxation which rightly should be imposed upon the entire citizenship. The bankers saw in it poor community financing practice. With car owners, through their automobile organizations, asserting their rights, it failed of passage at election time and its proponents also went down with it to defeat."

The legislative committee of the national association, it was said, will devote a large part of its time and talent this year in aiding affiliated clubs in combating such inimical proposals.

Fruit Growers at Poughkeepsie

Annual Meeting of New York State Horticultural Society This Week Promises Interesting Discussions On Important Questions.

The annual meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society will be held in Poughkeepsie on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. The opening session will be held in the Vassar Institute at 1 o'clock on Wednesday, with morning and afternoon sessions on the following days. At the same time the fruit show and commercial exhibition of the society will be held in the armory, where both the main floor and basement will be used.

Plans have been going forward for the meeting and exhibition for several months, with the result that the officers declare it will be one of the most noteworthy gatherings of fruit growers in the Hudson Valley. Speakers of national prominence have been secured for the program and many experts will discuss the various problems being faced by growers in this section and throughout the East.

The State College of Agriculture will be represented by a number of speakers, including Professor H. H. Whetzel, who will discuss "Apple Scab and Its Control;" Professor M. D. Leonard, "The Spray Service," Professor W. I. Myers, "How Farmers Are Financing Their Business;" Professor E. L. Worthen, "Fertilizer Prices and Fertilizer Economy in 1925;" Joseph Oskamp, "Pruning Young Fruit Trees." The State Agricultural Experiment Station will be represented by Dr. U. P. Hedrick, vice-director; P. J. Parrott, who will speak on "The Control of Rosy Aphis and Other Insects," and J. D. Luckett, the station's editor who will be in charge of an exhibit of publications issued by the station.

F. C. Sears, of the department of pomology at Massachusetts Agricultural College, will discuss "Getting Larger Crops of Better Apples from Our Orchards." H. Deane Phillips, director of the New York State Bureau of Markets, will speak on "The Problems of Marketing in our Cities." Harold B. Tukey, of Hudson, will speak on "Horticultural Problems in the Hudson River Valley" and E. V. Shear, Jr., of Poughkeepsie, on "Recent Fruit Studies in the Hudson Valley."

Questions to the number of 151 propounded by members are listed in the printed program for discussion.

Iron Rust Drives Fish From River in Siberia

Can you imagine a river [illegible]? There is one which [illegible] this phenomenon—the River Ob, which falls into the Arctic ocean and runs through the north of Siberia.

The Ob contains a great amount of iron. Every year when it freezes over it is cut off from the air. The result is that the metal precipitates. In other words, instead of being dissolved in the water, becomes solid.

The whole underside of the ice is covered thickly with rust, and even the fish and other creatures become rusty. In the lower reaches, where it does not form, the water, ordinarily quite clear, becomes cloudy and discolored. The whole river, 2,700 miles long, becomes poisonous.

People living near it have to quench their thirst with melted snow, and most of the fish leave the river and seek safety in the sea. They are told by instinct when the time arrives for their annual exodus.

In the spring the ice thaws and the air renders the river free from poison. The fish immediately return. They swim up the stream in such vast numbers that they are packed tightly together. Any boat that tries to navigate the river at this time forces thousands of fish onto the flat banks, where the natives kill them with sticks.

THE GERANIUM'S PLACE

"We are far more useful than you are," said the seeds of the lettuce which were just peeping above the ground in a box, showing their little green heads. They were in a schoolroom.

"I can't help that," [illegible] the geranium plant. "I was [illegible] meant to be useful. I try to b[illegible]ght and cheerful. I wish I could [illegible] useful, but everyone can't be just the same as everyone else. Neither can plants all be the same. Vegetables can't be plants and plants can't be vegetables. But we all have our own reasons for being here."

"Sometimes I get so discouraged," said one of the onions in another box. "For you it is different, little lettuce leaves. You are a salad when you grow up. You are considered a luxury and a treat."

"Don't people enjoy eating you?" asked the lettuce.

"Yes," said the onion, "they do. But they don't like to praise us. They are a little ashamed of liking us."

"If you weren't appreciated and liked," said the lettuce politely, "you wouldn't be planted and grown. They use you all the time—to season food and to make sandwiches with sometimes.

"Yes, I've heard several people speak of loving an onion and roast-beef sandwich.

"They like to have you join with me too in making a good salad.

"Why I'll begin to be mournful too if you are. I'll begin to think I'm not liked for so often they put us together."

"True," said the onion, "but no one ever speaks of being ashamed of liking you.

"They say that they love lettuce. And they don't seem to be ashamed of themselves as they speak of you.

"They really do seem that way about me."

"Ah you musn't be discouraged," said the lettuce. "I feel sure no one is ashamed of liking you. I know I love to have you put on a lettuce salad.

"For Shame," Continued the Fairy.

"I feel as though you were even giving me more flavor."

"Oh no, you shouldn't be discouraged," said the geranium plant.

"Yes," the lettuce repeated, "I agree with the geranium plant there, but geranium plant to my way of thin[illegible] is lazy.

"[illegible] eat geraniums. We ho[illegible]e food.

"[illegible] to be useful."

"I [illegible]ful," said the geranium plant. "And I'm cheerful too."

"I'm not gloomy," said the lettuce.

"But I am," said the onion.

"No reason for it," said the lettuce, "you do make things have a nice taste."

"Ah," said the onion, "that is true. I grieve at times because they do not like my rare onion perfume but now I feel better. I am indeed a great necessity. As for the geranium, it is utterly useless. It is not used for food or flavoring."

Just then the Queen of the Fairies came along. "Do I hear quarreling?" she asked. And the lettuce tried to hide as did the onion. The geranium plant was looking very bright and cheerful. Its red blossoms were happy and gay looking.

"For shame," continued the Fairy Queen. "You should not boast so much, lettuce and onions. Simply because you can be eaten you should not abuse the geranium because it is not food. And the onions were naughty to want more praise. Oh dear, oh dear," and the Fairy Queen sighed.

"We will never be naughty again," said the onions from their box and the lettuce from the lettuce box.

"And we'll never abuse the geranium plant because it can't be eaten and isn't useful," they added.

"I am glad to hear it," said the Fairy Queen. "To be sure lettuce and onions are very useful and they are also very good to eat—quite delicious in fact." The lettuce and onions looked very much pleased.

"But I don't want to hear you become conceited," she added, "because we wouldn't care to eat and grow strong if the world wasn't such a lovely, beautiful place. And it's the geranium's work to add to the beauty—not to the food."

And they knew that the Fairy Queen was right.

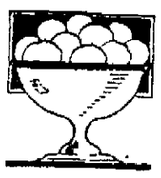
SEASONABLE FOOD

While oranges are plentiful let us use them freely in our menus. They add vitamines, mineral salts and fruit acids to our diet which are very essential to health.



Orange Charlotte Russe.—Take six round sponge cakes, baked in gem pans and scoup out to make baskets. Peel oranges, remove the white membrane and cut into small pieces, reserving all the juice. To one cupful of diced orange add one-fourth cupful of powdered sugar and allow to stand for thirty minutes. Whip one cupful of heavy cream and moisten the cake baskets with the orange juice, then fill with the fruit. Pile whipped cream on the fruit and garnish with pieces of orange.

Eggs and Mushrooms.—Dried mushrooms that have been well soaked and chopped may be used for this dish if the fresh ones cannot be obtained. Take four eggs, four pieces of toast, and a cupful of mushrooms. Make a white sauce of two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour and one-half cupfuls of milk. Cook until smooth and thick; season with salt and pepper, adding one tablespoonful of caramel. Toast rounds of bread, cover with the sauce to which the mushrooms have been added, then drop an egg on each, place in the oven long enough to cook the egg. Garnish with watercress.

Rice Pudding.—Well cooked rice is one of the most easily digested cereals. Put two tablespoonfuls of rice into a quart of sweet milk with one beaten egg, salt and sugar to taste and a handful of raisins and bake for several hours in a slow oven. Serve with a hard sauce.

Eggs With Rice.—When eggs are scarce and high this makes a good egg extender: Put three tablespoonfuls of washed rice into an omelet pan, stir with a tablespoonful of butter until a light brown, add a little water and steam until the rice is tender. Now add three eggs and one-half cupful of rich milk. Stir and cook until the eggs are set. Season with salt and pepper and serve at once.

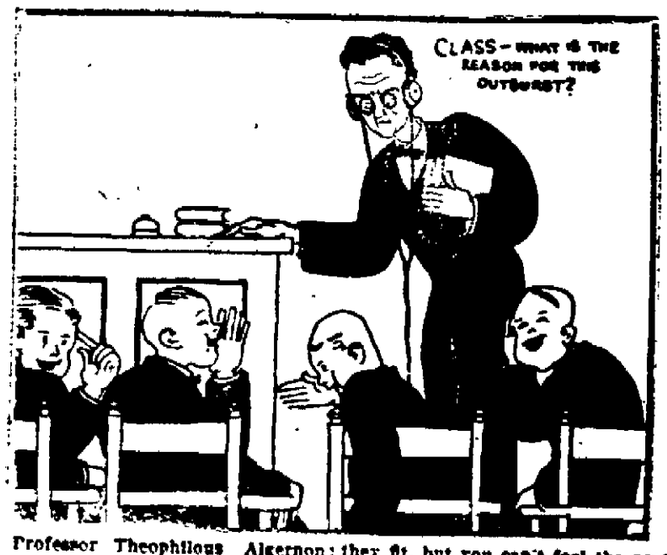
Broadcast Bill's Radiolays

By WILLIAM E. DOUGLASS



Professor Theophilous Algernon Sweet is a teacher of math a' a hard one to beat. Equations for him are as easy as pie an' there's not many problems that can stump this old guy. Prof. recently purchased a Radio set which is one knotty problem he has not solved yet; he's had it apart, an' there isn't a doubt but that he's got the dope on it inside an' out. He's probably worked out the general equations which help him to locate the broadcastin' stations, condensers an' grid leaks, detectors an' such with electrons mixed in it won't bother him much. I've heard them terms but I've got to admit I don't know their meanin' or just where they fit, but you can't fool the prof. an' before very long he'll be mixin' some algebra in with his song. An' the dear old professor quite oft in his haste forgets where his Radio earmuffs are placed, an' his students all laff as their teacher appears with his set of receivers still clamped to his ears. He gets so absorbed in the work with his set that nothin' else matters. He's been known to forget to go for his meals for a day at a time—is it his mathematics or music sublime? I don't know the answer, but take it from me, he's enjoyin' himself in this Radio spree.—Copyright, 1925, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.

Hearing Tuesday On State Dry Bill

Bill Expected to Pass Assembly but Its Fate in Senate is Doubtful—Other Hearings Scheduled Before Legislative Committees.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Feb. 16.—Legislative activities at the Capitol this week will be featured by a hearing tomorrow on the Wales-Jenks state wide prohibition enforcement bill.

Hundreds from all parts of the state, including scores of women here to attend a law enforcement conference called by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, will attend the hearing which will take place before the Senate and Assembly codes committee in the Assembly chamber.

The dry measure is expected to pass the Assembly but its success in the upper house is considered doubtful. At least four Republican senators have strongly intimated they will not support the bill. Their votes, cast with the Democratic senators, will be more than enough to send the dry measure down to defeat.

If by any chance the Wales-Jenks bill should pass both houses, it would be vetoed by Governor Smith. The governor frankly told the lawmakers in his annual message that such a law was not needed. Enforcement and not new laws are needed, the executive said.

Dr. Ella A. Boole, president of the W. C. T. U., will be one of the chief women speakers for the bill. It was at the request of Dr. Boole that the legislative leaders set the hearing on the dry bill for tomorrow so the women here for the law enforcement conference could attend.

Tonight the Assembly will pass the bill which provides for a bonus for the next of kin of all deceased veterans of the world war. A similar measure was passed in the upper house two weeks ago. The bonus will be at the rate of $10 for each month the veteran served, the total not to exceed $150.

There will be a hearing one week from tomorrow on a bill proposing immediate ratification by the Legislature of the proposed Child Labor amendment to the Federal constitution. Governor Smith and the Republican leaders, however, favor the submission of this question to the voters before the lawmakers take any action.

The hearing on the so called clean books bill has been postponed to February 24. For the last two sessions, the clean books bill has gone down to defeat in the Senate. Senator Love, Democrat of Brooklyn, who is sponsoring the measure this year, thinks it has a good chance of passage.

The legislative investigation of the grade crossing elimination problem will be started this week. The committee is to report back to the Legislature by March 1.

GRADUATES OF SPENCER'S SCHOOL SECURE POSITIONS

Federation Holds Open Meeting

Lowell Club Acts as Hostess at Open Meeting of Federation of Women's Clubs—Interesting Program Rendered—Kingston City Library to Receive $325.

The postponed open meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs, which usually comes in January, was held on Saturday afternoon in the parlors of the St. James M. E. Church and was a very enjoyable meeting.

This meeting has been ill-starred from the first, when two affiliated clubs whose turn it was to entertain the Federation failed to provide a program. Then the Lowell Club came gallantly to the front and expressed its willingness to be the hostess club. The Lowell Club received word less than an hour before the meeting that Miss Mary E. Noone who was to assist with the program, had been taken suddenly so ill as to need a physician, being sent to bed instead of the meeting. However, the Lowell Club again arose to the emergency.

Mrs. Wonderly, first vice-president of the Federation, presided at the meeting. Owing to the illness of the secretary, Mrs. Drake, Mrs. D. G. Atkins of the Lowell Club, acted as secretary pro tem, reading the minutes of the last open meeting and the last executive committee meeting.

Miss Lucy Healey, treasurer, reported $495.16 in the treasury, of which $38 belonged to the public health fund.

Miss Louise Van Hoevenberg, chairman of the lecture committee, reported receipts for the Stefansson and Leacock lectures to be $1,436.50 and the disbursements $909.15, leaving a balance of $527.35, with an additional receipt of a dollar the day of the meeting, making the total balance to be $528.35. This announcement was received with hearty applause and Miss Van Hoevenberg and her committee were not only complimented for the excellent and very arduous work done but were warmly thanked. Later in the meeting it was voted to contribute $325 of the sum to the Kingston City Library.

Mrs. A. Ray Powley, chairman of the membership committee reported one new member, Mrs. Harry L. Edson, making the number of individual members 71.

Mrs. Harry P. Van Wagenen, Kingston, chairman of the third district, was present for the first time in her official capacity. She pledged the services of her office and herself at any time to the members of the Federation, and in order to make this service the more helpful, she asked that each club send a copy of their year book or program to her as soon as published for the new year. Mrs. Van Wagenen stated that the State and National Federation had three main objectives this year: Increasing the subscriptions of The Club News; the furthering of the Better Homes movement; and the support and cooperation of the women of the land, looking to permanent peace, but a peace with honor.

The matter of lack of a sufficient number of instructors for the public play-grounds was brought up, and the chair was empowered to appoint a committee to confer with Mayor Block, looking to the need of better protection of play-grounds and for the purpose of gaining more definite knowledge of the entire play-ground problem in this city.

Mrs. Wonderly then turned the meeting over to the Lowell Club, and the president, Mrs. Steiner, welcomed the guests for the club. Mrs. Steiner reminded those present of the fact that it was a day of especially affectionate greetings—Valentine's Day—and of the fact that it was the day on which all scan the mails in the hope that some specially favored message be found. Sometimes, she said, we are so fortunate as to find our heart's desire; again we are disappointed. That, she said, was the case with The Lowell Club. They had expected as their special valentine to present to their guests, so dear to them all, Mr. Noone, who would give them reading from two of Barrie's plays. But at the last moment, however, they received the very distressing news of Miss Noone's sudden incapacitating illness. Their regret at having to make such announcement was keen. But they were happy to say that they could still entertain those present with songs by Mrs. Johnston and violin solo by one of their own club members, Mrs. Cubberly.

Mrs. Johnston delighted her hearers as always, singing "A Slave Song," by Teresa Del Riego, and an encore number, "Bunnie," by McGill, accompanied by Mrs. William S. Lyons, who also accompanied Mrs. Cubberly.

Mrs. Cubberly then played admirable "Canto Amoroso," by Sammartini, and "Canzonetta," by D'Ambrosio. As an encore she played "Berceuse," by Tschaikowsky, after which Mrs. Johnston sang beautifully, "Beloved, it is Morn," by Aylward.

Mrs. Lewis of the Lowell Club said that the club had felt so grateful to disappointed over Miss Noone's illness that they had after all arising persuaded their president [illegible] to give a reading at that time, a truly unfortunate act Mrs. Steiner gave with rare charm two war poems, the first of the Revolution, "The Ballad of Sweet Pea;" the other of the late war, one of Kipling's latest poems, "The Marines." In response to the continued applause, Mrs. Steiner gave a delightful little poem, appropriate to the day, "The Guest."

The program closed with Mrs. Cubberly's playing with grace and beauty, "Viennese Melody," by Kreisler.

The guests were invited to remain for a cup of tea—which meant also delicious sandwiches and home made cake—and a social hour. The handsomely appointed tea table with its spring-like decorations of narcissus and jonquils, was presided over by Mrs. Steiner and Mrs. Wonderly.

"Watch Nights"

It has been the custom from time immemorial to maintain watch on the night preceding any great event. References to this are found in the Gospel of Mark 14:37, Psalms 130:6. The watch night services for the new year were popularized by John Wesley, founder of the Methodist religion, and by the Moravians, with whom Wesley was at one time allotted.

FINE FAMILY OF SEVEN OWE THEIR GOOD HEALTH TO FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

"We have a family of seven children and every one of them takes Father John's Medicine. We give it to them at the first sign of a cold, and in a couple of days they are entirely well again. Last year my little girl was dangerously ill and the doctors gave her up, but Father John's Medicine brought her back to health. We wouldn't be without it in the house."—(Signed) Mrs. J. Clark, 652 Haverhill St., Lawrence, Mass.

Thousands of mothers have proven that Father John's Medicine is the greatest body builder. Science shows that the reason for this is because the basis for Father John's Medicine has always been the purest cod liver oil, scientifically put together with other ingredients, so that the rich nourishment is easily taken up even by those who are weak and run down. 69 years in use.

Saugerties Has $50,000 Fire

Manufacturing Plant of Montgomery-Washburn Company Totally Destroyed, Together With Large Stock of Manufactured Product—Origin of Fire Unknown.

Saugerties was visited by a disastrous fire Saturday morning when the two story frame building on Livingston street occupied by the Montgomery-Washburn Company, together with a large stock of manufactured goods ready for shipment, was reduced to ashes.

The Montgomery-Washburn Company manufactured tarpaulin covers, feed bags and iceless jackets for ice cream cans. They were literally swamped with orders and only recently increased the number of employes from 12 to over 50, and had made many improvements to the building to meet the increased demand for their products. The second floor was stocked with tarpaulin and the nature of these, oil, etc., made them an easy prey to the flames, which licked through them, and also the rest of the building and stock like tinder.

Lack of water pressure hampered the firemen in their work, and the tinder-like structure and nature of the contents made a hot fire, the heat at times being so intense that the firemen were driven back from points of vantage.

When it was found impossible to save the factory, the firemen turned their efforts to the saving of the houses nearby and in this line, they performed a miracle. Fortunately no wind was blowing, and although huge sparks from the factory flames floated up through the sky and were carried over as far as Elm street and parts of Ulster avenue, no damage followed in their trail.

The house of Winfield Snyder, on the east side of the factory, was endangered a number of times, parts of the building being afire, but the good work of the firemen quenched the incipient blazes. The Snyders had their household effects removed and were expecting the destruction of their home.

On the west side of the factory the double house of John Lewis and Wendell Salle was also threatened and the fierce heat struck the east side of the house and peeled the paint off. The firemen kept the house drenched and this saved it from the flames.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is conjectured that it started in the basement near the heater, as it was in this part of the building that the fire first broke out and was detected. Superintendent George B. Ohley and other employes were in the building at work until 10:30 Friday evening and everything then was apparently all right. The approximate loss is over $50,000, and is partially covered by insurance in the John A. Snyder agency to the amount of $40,000, and part of the insurance was in the agency of Decker & Fowler of Kingston.

The Montgomery-Washburn Company opened a temporary office in the home of the president, H. C. Washburn, on John street, and as soon as quarters can be secured, will resume manufacturing in order to fill the numerous orders being received.

Superintendent Ohley hopes to have the plant at work within a week and the employes have been notified accordingly.

While no plans have assumed shape as yet, the company later will, in all probability, erect a modern factory building, covering the entire lot where the former factory stood. The company's loss is a heavy one and the community feels deeply sympathetic for it in its sudden and unexpected misfortune.

German Police Dogs

German police dogs, while they do not seem demonstratively affectionate, are staunch and loyal, and conduct themselves with quiet dignity which is equaled by few other breeds. Many dogs in old age become snappy and cross, but police dogs do not have this tendency any more than dogs of other breeds.

Shocked Elephant

The wheels of four factories in Roubaix, France, were stopped from turning by the picketing of a circus elephant to an iron stake which had been driven into the ground so deeply that it touched the transmission cable. And the elephant did not like it, either, but the shock was not fatal.

Mental Clinic Here on Friday

The monthly mental clinic conducted by the Middletown State Hospital will hold its regular session in the county building, 74 John street, Kingston, on Friday, February 20, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Dr. Arthur S. Moore will be the specialist in attendance. Mrs. Osborne will be the social worker.

The aim of the clinic is to aid in re-establishing paroled and discharged patients in their respective homes and communities. In addition, the clinic also aims to be of service to any persons who are suffering from mental or nervous disorders.

Early attention to mental disorders is essential and the clinic is recommended to be used freely as a consultation center. All consultations are free and confidential.

Patients on parole from the hospital are requested to report at the clinic at this time.

Tells How Rich Women Are Robbed

Below: MRS. HUGO SCHOELLKOPF. HERBERT WILSON.

The amazing confession in a Los Angeles, Cal., court of Herbert L. Wilson, notorious ex-minister and admitted bandit, that he had been approached by Jack Elerick, who said he knew a wealthy New York divorcee, Mrs. Charlotte King Palmer, who was "thrilling Broadway" with her lavish display of jewelry, and that he, Elerick and Charles Stahl, burglarized Mrs. King's home and stole $220,000 worth of jewels, may clear up other unsolved robberies of women who make ostentatious shows of their jewels in New York's cafes. Mrs. Irene Schoellkopf, wife of Hugh Schoellkopf, Buffalo millionaire, was robbed of priceless gems in the same fashion, but the thieves were apprehended and the jewels recovered. Mme. Edith Bobe, wealthy New York modiste, was robbed in the same way, and that robbery was never solved. Wilson, who is now serving a life sentence in San Quentin, Cal., prison, admitted Mrs. Palmer's ankle was broken in her fight with the thieves. Detectives had previously had no clue to the Palmer robbery.

SUIT AGAINST KEARNS SCHEDULED FOR TRIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Los Angeles, Feb. 16.—The $200,000 suit of Mrs. Mary C. Tenney, also known as Frances Marion Emerson against Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, was scheduled to go on trial here today. Mrs. Tenney claimed the champion's manager attacked her in a Hollywood residence May 2, 1924.

Kearns denied the charges and criminal action against him was dropped. According to detectives, Mrs. Tenney was involved in a similar suit several years ago in Baltimore.

Mrs. Tenney and Kearns met on a movie lot and the publicity director admitted he took Mrs. Tenney to Hollywood. He denied charges that the woman was attacked after she had been "placed under the influence of a narcotic."

Famous London Spot

Cripplegate, London, England, was so called from the lame beggars who sat there as early as the year 1010. The gate was rebuilt by the brewers of London in 1244; and was pulled down and the material sold for £91 in July, 1760. On November 12, 1674, the poet John Milton was buried in the church then standing near Cripplegate.

THE AMERICAN EXCHANGE NATIONAL BANK, NEW YORK, COUNTERSIGNING AGENT

The following information is contained in a letter addressed to us by His Excellency, W. Wroblewski, Minister Plenipotentiary of the Republic of Poland to the United States:

POLAND

"The boundaries of the Republic of Poland were established in 1919 by the Treaty of Versailles and by agreement with adjoining countries. Poland has been a member of the League of Nations since its inception. The record of financial and economic progress in Poland constitutes an outstanding achievement among European nations since the War and may be summarized as follows:

1. The creation of a stable currency with a reserve of 65% gold and gold securities;
2. A balanced budget—in 1924 total Government receipts exceeding total expenditures by $14,282,000;
3. A normal surplus of exports over imports;
4. A Government-owned railroad system of 14,000 miles showing in 1924 an excess of receipts over operating expenses;
5. The funding of the Government's debt to the United States and to all other countries.

The Constitution of Poland provides for a President, whose term of office is seven years, and a Senate and Diet, elected by general suffrage. It has an area of 150,000 square miles, and a population in excess of 27,000,000, in which respect it is the fifth largest in continental Europe. The country is primarily agricultural, and is at present the chief producer in Europe of rye, the second in production of potatoes, third in barley and oats, and fourth in beet sugar. The textile industry in Poland is highly developed, as well as the oil, sugar refining, iron and steel, chemical and timber industries. Polish coal production is next in volume to that of Germany and France, and there exist important deposits of salt, iron, zinc and other minerals.

FINANCES

The external funded debt of Poland on December 31, 1924 amounted to $320,380,000 and the internal debt to $26,441,000, a total of $346,821,000, or approximately $13 per capita. Of the above external debt, all but approximately $50,000,000 consists of debts to foreign governments contracted since the war for reconstruction purposes. Under the Treaty of Versailles, Poland will eventually assume certain obligations, the amount of which is not yet determined, in connection with former German and Austrian territory allotted to her. As against the above debt, Government-owned properties, including railroads, forests, tobacco factories, mineral and [illegible] refineries, salt mines and other assets were valued on May 1, 1924 at approximately $1,260,000,000. The Government proposes that the entire proceeds of this loan are to be expended solely for constructive and productive purposes.

SECURITY

These bonds are a direct obligation of the Republic of Poland, and the authorized issue, limited to $50,000,000 of which $35,000,000 is to be presently outstanding, is specifically secured by the revenue derived by the Government from the Sugar Tax, amounting in 1924 to $10,422,000, and by the gross receipts of the Government railroads. Receipts from the Sugar Tax will be deposited as received in the Bank of Poland to be employed in meeting the interest and sinking fund requirements of this issue. The Government covenants that if the annual proceeds of this Tax shall in any year fall below $10,000,000, other revenues will be added to the amount so deposited to make up that sum. So long as any of the bonds of this issue are outstanding the Government covenants that it will not subject the receipts from the Sugar Tax, or the gross revenues of the railroads, to any charge which is not specifically subordinated to the lien of these bonds.

In point of railroad mileage, Poland is next in importance in continental Europe to Germany and France. The Government system, acquired under treaties concluded after [illegible] is approximately 14,000 miles in length, and has an estimated value, including rolling stock, in excess of $800,000,000. The lines are free from mortgage debt, with the exception of liens now outstanding on certain sections amounting to approximately $10,000,000. Aircraft Bombs Not Limited

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, Feb. 16.—The view of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur on the value of aircraft in modern warfare came in for sharp criticism again today before the house aircraft investigating committee.

The committee questioned Major Thomas D. Milling on Wilbur's testimony that aerial raids are not particularly effective during war time, a statement which Wilbur based on the air raids over London during the World War.

"You can no more go back to the World War to determine the use of aviation," said Milling, "than you can go back to the Civil War.

"The bomb used during the World War as compared to the bomb used now were like pea-shooters as compared with service rifles."

Major Milling said 2,500 pound bombs were the largest used during the World War, while bombs used now in air attacks weigh up to 4,000 pounds.

"There is no limit," said Milling, "to the size of the bomb that may be used."

45 MINUTES TO SELECT JURY IN MURDER CASE

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 16.—A jury was selected today in the trial for murder of Marie Zelio, 19 year old girl-wife and mother who is charged with having stabbed John Renne, 24, to death in Bayonne, N. J.

Dominick Zelio saw his wife riding in an automobile with Renne and several others. It was charged and ran after the machine. He became involved in a dispute with Renne after the automobile was halted. Mrs Zelio thrust herself between them. Renne fell, fatally stabbed. Police charge the young woman stabbed Renne to protect her husband.

The Zelio's four year old daughter was in court when selection of a jury before County Judge Daniel T. O'Regan was begun.

It required only forty five minutes to select the jury.

Aloysius McMahon, assistant prosecutor, opened for the state. He said he would show that Mrs Zelio frequently went out with men other than her husband, that on the night Renne was stabbed she carried an open penknife in her mesh bag with the intention of stabbing Renne.

Wisdom Teeth

A fair percentage of persons never have wisdom teeth declares Hygeia magazine. These teeth generally erupt some time between the eighteenth and twenty-fifth year, although in many cases eruption is delayed. Frequently wisdom teeth form but remain within the jaw bone and never erupt. The majority of such teeth do no harm, although occasionally it is necessary to remove them if there is pain or some sign of infection.

Doubtful Compliment

Bobby, aged six, was playing with a little girl. One of his schoolmates passed by and began teasing. "Bobby's got a girl, Bobby's got a girl!"

"Ah, go on!" retorted Bobby. "You've got one yourself, and she's worse'n mine!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Feb 16.—The stock market displayed unusual heaviness today. Stocks were forced on the market in the largest volume of any of the recent liquidation movements and prices declined more rapidly than in any session of the market since the turn of the year.

There were many reasons for bearish sentiment in the speculative markets today. Commission houses have been urging profit taking, the industrial "revival" has been slow and the recent debacle in the French franc has been disappointing to financial leaders here

After early irregularity the market showed a tendency to rally shortly after the noon period But heavy selling broke out over the whole market and prices tumbled as stocks were pressed for sale on all sides. Compared with the high levels of last week, today's prices showed declines of from 2 to 8 points in industrial and railroad stocks which have been leading the forward movement

United States Steel lost nearly 2 points Baldwin Locomotive was down 3, American Can down 2½, General Motors down 2, Cast Iron Pipe 14 points, Universal Pipe common 3 preferred 4, Maxwell Motors 3 The oil stocks tumbled with the rest of the market, despite the fact that Eastern crude oil and gasoline were advanced in price in some of the important producing and consuming centers Atchison and New Haven were the outstanding strong spots in the railroad list, the former advancing nearly 3 points to 119½

Pleads Guilty to Murder Charge

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Portland, Me, Feb 16.—Charles H Fielding pleaded guilty to first degree murder when he went on trial today with Mrs Lottie Sanborn Cote for the slaying of the woman's husband, Alphonso Cote November 7 last.

Under the law the plea could not be accepted, but Fielding's attorney said that his client would turn state's evidence, claiming it is understood, that Mrs Cote exerted a hypnotic influence over him and that she plotted also to slay Fielding's wife

Fielding was charged with murder, Mrs Cote with being an accessory before the fact, and her son, Ralph 19, with being an accessory after the fact

Cote, a North Gorham farmer, was slain by a shot from behind on a lonely country road The body was buried on his farm The farm was plowed for other bodies but none were found Fielding was said to be one of many admirers of Mrs Cote

Last Standing Column of Temple of Hera on Samos.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington D C.)

In the combination of present picturesqueness, wealth of historic associations and interesting ruins of past greatness, few regions can surpass the islands of the Aegean off the coast of Asia Minor, the region that constituted the seed bed for the glory that was Greece.

Not only has Asia Minor and the islands facing its shores been the stage upon which have been enacted some of the most portentous events in human history, but it is at the present time one of the most interesting and picturesque regions in the world It has often been termed the quintessence of the East. For nowhere else will you find, thrown together in close association, so many things of the East —the camel caravan; the groves of cypress, olive, plane and valonia trees; the mosque and towering minaret; latticed windows and veiled women; quaint and picturesque costumes, and a background made up of the remnants of an ancient civilization in the form of ruined cities which dot the surface of the whole country

Among the Aegean islands Chios and its neighbor Samos are favorite spots with the few tourists who frequent this region, because of their accessibility They are situated but a short sail from Smyrna.

As early as 700 B. C Chios was one of the richest and most important members of the Ionian Union It has disputed with Smyrna the honor of being the birthplace of Homer Chios has been, in turn, Ionian, Persian, Athenian, Roman, Italian, Turkish and finally, in 1913, after a separation of nearly 2300 years, it was united once more to the parent country, Greece As one well may imagine, a little island which has changed masters so many times necessarily must have suffered much from the strife which swept over it.

Twice has this island been visited by terrible earthquakes The first was away back in the year 17 A. D., and it was only through the fostering care of Emperor Tiberius that the people were able to make a fresh start. The second was in 1881, when the town of Kastro was practically laid waste. Mosques, churches and dwelling-houses disappeared into the bowels of the earth, engulfing no less than 5000 people This earthquake visited the whole island, and many beautiful and historic monasteries, some of which contained priceless objects of art, valuable libraries and monuments of antiquity, were completely lost.

Happy In the Old Days.

But in spite of all these vicissitudes Chios has also seen many happy days. Even in the old days of the Ionian Union it was celebrated on account of its commerce and industries, especially for its native wine, and the manufacture of beds and sofas. Under Rome the island was ruled as an insular province, and enjoyed several hundred years of almost unbroken peace and prosperity. The people have always been sober and industrious, and not only have they grown opulent in the various fields of commerce, but many have also succeeded in literature and art as well.

Chios' real troubles virtually began in the Greek war of independence. Somewhat against the will of the people, the island became involved in this struggle and was visited by a massacre which appalled humanity. In 1822 the Captain Pasha appeared before Kastro with a powerful fleet and landed an army of Moslems, who slaughtered, in the space of two months, no less than 30,000 Chians It is estimated that 45,000 were sold into slavery. The entire island was given over to pillage, and scarcely a village, church, or convent was spared the flames

Home of Gum Mastic.

One of the chief products of Chios is gum mastic, which is grown on the southern part of the island It is used as a gum, and also distilled as a liquid, which is used throughout the Levant as an appetizer immediately before meals When mixed with water this liquid assumes a pale milky color, and is an ingredient if used in immoderate quantities

Many pleasant drives may be taken from Kastro, along the coast and into the interior of the island There are numerous olive groves, although not nearly so many as on the sister island of Mytilene The roads are not good, and the means of conveyance are rather uncomfortable, especially if carriages are used In this respect Chios could emulate the splendid roads on the island of Mytilene, which are considered to be the best anywhere in the Levant.

One feature of the scenery of Chios is the picturesque old windmills which crown the ridges and slopes along the coast The wheels are large and are fitted with sails, which supply the motive power for grinding corn. The landscape in many places is barren, especially the hilltops, but the valleys are usually fertile

Owing to the possible visitation of earthquakes, the houses are rarely more than two stories high, and when scattered along the countryside are usually surrounded by olive or pepper trees, which add much to the beauty and charm of the country.

Sailing toward Samos with the broad harbor of ancient Ephesus only a few miles away to the left, the influence of the past steals slowly over one, and soon there comes the mood for profound reflection.

It is difficult to realize that among these barren and denuded hills, which skirt the coast of both mainland and islands, there once throbbed the pulse of Ionian civilization; that these shores were graced with picturesque and happy cities, where hardy men and beautiful women lived content among unsurpassed natural environments and all the accomplishments known to any race; that this soil, these seas were the recipients of the seed which developed into the base upon which has been erected the edifice of modern statecraft, philosophy, science, and art; that this atmosphere once was pervaded with poetic refinement and literary perfection that has called forth the greatest powers of emulation on the part of every nation which has since existed, and that a school of architecture flourished here which reared gigantic structures at once the wonder and admiration of the ancient world.

Story of Samos.

The Island of Samos formed one of the oldest settlements of the Ionians in the Mediterranean, and from this point most of the colonies on the coast of Asia Minor and other parts of the Aegean sea were established. During the second half of the Sixth century B C, the wisdom and skill of the tyrant Polycrates won for Samos the first place in the Ionian Union With the death of this great man the prestige of Samos began to wane, and it gradually sank into insignificance. The island was also the birthplace of the great philosopher, Pythagoras.

Samos came under the yoke, in turn, of the Athenian Greeks, Romans, Byzantines, Arabians, Venetians, Genoese, and finally the Turks. In the Greek war of independence Samos fought for Greece and successfully resisted every effort on the part of the Turks to maintain themselves on the island.

The little town of Tigani is situated by the harbor of ancient Samos, and the immense moles once erected by Polycrates have, for the most part, been reconstructed. The walls, scattered fragments of a theater, and the celebrated underground aqueduct are the only remains of the ancient town, and they date from the time of the famous tyrant. The walls which pass over the lofty ridge behind the harbor in the distance resemble the Great Wall of China. They are well preserved, and there are no less than 20 towers still standing.

Herodotus dwells at length upon the harbor, the conduit under the mountain, and the Temple of Hera The sight that is a marvel of engineering skill, considering the time and age in which it was constructed. The end of the tunnel is situated about half way up the hill above the town, and with a guide and candles one may penetrate some distance into the channel.

The Temple of Hera was the finest monument ever erected on the island of Samos, and Herodotus says that it was the largest known to him in all his travels. All that remains of this great temple today is one solitary column

The Burglar's Best Friend

THE burglar's best friend is the man or woman who keeps money, jewelry, bonds and valuable papers "hidden away" in trunks, trunks and tin boxes. Burglars like tin boxes.

But burglars don't like our safe deposit vaults. Our customers do—because they are safe, convenient and economical—less than a cent a day.

BASEBALL POOL PROBE IN POUGHKEEPSIE

An investigation was started Saturday before Supreme Court Justice Joseph Corbin in Poughkeepsie as a result of alleged maintenance of the Hunter Men's Club of Troy, alleged to be a lottery, conducted for the purpose of selling pools on baseball games Although no definite statement can be obtained as to the scope of the investigation, it is believed that will result in uncovering some of the prominent politicians of the state who are alleged to be in the baseball business.

More than 20 witnesses were summoned and questioned Saturday, the majority being from Poughkeepsie and included among them were Fred Simmons, Charles Gilbert, James Hamrick, Gilbert Houghton and Jason Moran. The principal witnesses, however, were James T. Wright, Troy, alleged to be the promoter of the pool, and James J. Nolan, said to be attorney for the pool.

The investigation is said to have been the outgrowth of the allotting of the capital prize on September 8, of last year, when Peter Nash and Ralph Podolsky, both of Poughkeepsie, claim to have won that prize, but it was awarded, it is alleged, to two people in Albany who had purchased the ticket as "A and F."

Trolley Car Caught Fire.

Sunday evening trolley car No. 6 on the Broadway division, caught fire at Broadway and McEntee street, and an alarm was turned in from Box 43, on the corner. The firemen found the fire was caused by an overheated motor and quickly had it under control, with but slight damage to the car

Seriously Hurt in Fall.

Philip Sherry's House Robbed

Residence of Manager of Orpheum Theater Burglarized Early Saturday Evening—Thieves Took Their Time and Enjoyed Something to Eat.

Early Saturday evening the home of Manager Philip Sherry of the Orpheum theater at No. 197 West Chestnut street was burglarized by thieves who found the house vacant and proceeded to take their time in searching for valuables.

Entrance was obtained through a cellar window, and the burglars obtained about $125 in money, two complete sets of solid silverware, a fountain pen, some valuable rings and eight quart bottles of whiskey.

After cleaning up, the burglars descended to the dining room where they had something to eat and drink. They found some chicken in the ice box as well as other eatables, and washed it down with liquid refreshments.

Officers Fatum and Reardon made an investigtion when the robbery was later reported to the police and believe that the job was that of two or more men.

Mr. Sherry and the members of his family left the house about 7:30 o'clock and did not return until after 9 o'clock.

Over 1,000 Inspect WDBZ

Local Broadcasting Station Is Visited By Huge Crowd Saturday—Red Seal Night. The Program For Wednesday.

Over a thousand persons of the city and county, interested in the Ulster County Boy Scout Station WDBZ, which is located in the city hall building, visited the studio on Saturday, between the hours of one and five o'clock. The gathering at the headquarters to learn about the workings of the local broadcasting station, was the result of the invitation extended by Chief Executive Nesslage.

Announcer Nesslage was kept busy during the afternoon, explaining the different parts of the machine and demonstrating how the programs were sent out into the air. To acquaint all those in attendance Saturday, how the radiocasting was done, the Aramello Brothers and Ralph Finnegan rendered musical numbers which were broadcasted. The Rev. William J. Nelson, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, gave a talk which was broadcasted and proved very interesting. The Rev. Mr. Nelson spoke on the operation of radio sets and how to get the best results.

Red Seal Program.

The regular evening for broadcasting from Station WDBZ has been changed from Thursday evening, to Wednesday, beginning this week. On Wednesday evening, Davis Hawk will be in charge of the program to be known as Red Seal. Included on the musical program will be solos by Ralph Jones, who on previous occasions delighted local radio operators. Mr. Jones's numbers are regularly broadcasted from Schenectady. Miss Gladys Craw, who is becoming very popular, will also render a group of solos. The Colonial Serenaders with Harry Maisenhelder director will render selections.

Sunday Vesper Service.

On Sunday afternoon next the Sunday Vesper Service will again be held. The Rev. Lucas Boeve, pastor of the First Dutch Church, will be in charge of the services assisted by the church choir.

The Vesper Service conducted Sunday afternoon by the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, assisted by the church choir were very beautiful.

Dawn by the Sea

The glory of the new day came soundlessly. Peace was in the blue heaven, on the blue-green sea, on the green land. There was no wind, even when the currents of the deep moved in shadowy purple. The sea itself was silent, making no more than a sighing slumber-breath round the white sands of the isle, or a hushed whisper where the tide lifted the long weed that clung to the rocks.—Fiona Macleod.

Tommy on Twins

A boy's composition on twins: "Twins is a baby, only it's double. It usually arrives about 4:37 in the morning, when a fellow is getting in his best licks, sleepin'. Twins is accompanied by excitement and a doctor. When twins do anything wrong, their mother can't tell which one to lick, so she gives it to 'em both to make sure. We got twins at our house and I'd swap 'em every day for an airdale or most anything."—Boston Transcript.

WASHINGTON

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THIS was his greatness; he combined
Vision and judgment, fact and dream;
His was the truly balanced mind,
Not skeptical, nor yet extreme.
No thinker quicker caught the gleam
Of new-born stars in human skies,
And yet he tested star and stream,
On earth and heaven kept his eyes.

This was his greatness: he could be
Leader and comrade, master, man;
He wore the robe of dignity,
With human brotherhood his plan.
He was the first American,
A pattern for a nation now,
His soul as large as heaven's span,
His heart as tender as its dew.

This was his greatness: Washington
Met strength with strength, yet could be kind
Without the look of weakness—one
Who firmness, gentleness, combined.
His was the truly balanced mind
That none could flatter nor defame;
To glory and ambition blind,
He won, unsought, a deathless name.

Your Last Name

IS IT KISSAM?

THERE seems to be much difference of opinion and uncertainty concerning the surname Kissam. However, there is no uncertainty concerning the fact that the family was founded in this country by one John Kissam, born in 1644, who made his home in Flushing, L. I. It is not known where he was born. That is, some authorities say that he was born in England, while others say he was a native of Amsterdam, Holland, and others have it that he was a Huguenot from Montpelier, France. It would be interesting for some member of the Kissam family to trace to its source each one of these traditions.

The fact that the Kissams were always strong supporters of the English or Episcopal church certainly suggests that they were English rather than Hollanders, though there are some instances of families of Dutch name having become devoted Episcopalians. Sometimes the fact that the head of the family married women of that church led to the future alliance of the family with that church.

It is also recalled that the Kissams were strong Tories in the Revolution, a fact that has been cited in proof of the English origin of the family. But this might be explained in another way. The Kissams were from the first persons of prominence in Queens county, Long Island, and intermarried with the Whitehead, Rutgers, Hewlett, Treadwell, Combs, Van Brunt, Vanderbilt and other prominent families in and about New York city.

Semple—There is no doubt that this is derived from an earlier form of surname, St. Paul. This sort of contraction of a saint's name was quite usual.

Holland—At first sight you might suppose that the first to bear this name was a native of the Netherlands, but it is an English name derived from a small place in Lancashire called Holland.

Maud—This is clearly a matronymic. That is to say, it is a surname derived from the mother rather than from the father.

Lowe—This is usually a German-Jewish name and, of course, is from the word meaning lion in German. About a hundred years ago, when German Jews were required by law to adopt a definite surname, many took names of animals and birds, as Adler, Eagle, Hirsch, Hart and Wolf.

"Find Yourself Drive" Banquet

Will Be Held Wednesday at the Y. M. C. A.—160 Boys Have Submitted Answers to Self Analysis Blanks.

The Find Yourself Campaign promoted by a committee of the leading business and professional men of the city, is shaping up in very fine style.

Already over 160 boys have submitted their answers to the self analysis blank and signified their wish to be interviewed by one of the leading men in the city of the profession that the boy desires to follow when he leaves school.

Several of the boys are working and eager for a talk with a man who can advise them on how they may better qualify for bigger jobs in the line that they have started with.

There will be a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening of this week, when the boys will come together and meet the men who are to interview them, as the guests of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs.

Over sixty men have been asked to be among the interviewers and it is the hope of the committee that the men are going to respond in fine shape.

The banquet gives the boys a chance to meet with the men and get acquainted, and to arrange a convenient time for both man and boy to meet for the quiet interview.

Frank Gibson of Herkimer will be the speaker, and as a man who knows men and boys he will surely be worth hearing.

The committee in charge is as follows:

Ernest Acker of the K. G. & E. Co., chairman.

Judge Fowler of the county court.

Dr. M. Michael, superintendent of schools.

B. C. Van Ingen, principal of the high school.

A. L. Harder, New York Telephone Co.

Robert Service, principal of the vocational schools.

Louis Coe, Chamber of Commerce.

Henry Nesslage, Boy Scout executive.

Chester R. Hall, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

Has New Cure

DR. F. H. ALEXANDER

The American Academy of Ambulant Proctology, in session at Jacksonville, Fla., included in its programme a demonstration by Dr. Henry F. Alexander, surgeon-in-chief of the National Soldiers' Home at Johnson City, Tenn., of his medical treatment for fistula. Dr. Alexander declared his methods had effected 100 per cent cures in several years' use.

Screen Opera Planned

A new departure in moving-picture production will take place shortly on the leading Paris stage, for M. Rouche, director of the opera, is arranging to show films with a musical accompaniment of special significance. The plan has been under special consideration for a couple of years, but there were objections not easy to overcome, says the St. Paul Dispatch.

For the first opera movie the "Miracle des Loups" is the film selected, for which M. Henri Rabaud of the institute, director of the Conservatoire of Music and a well-known composer, is furnishing an original musical score. This blending of the oldest and the youngest of the arts naturally will interest both the vast public of the opera and that of the film halls, where the musical program has come to be recognized as of great importance to the effect produced by the pictures.

Darwin's Misfortune

"It was somewhat unlucky for Darwin that fortune writes caricatures of Fortune writes concerning the great naturalist. That popular opinion credited him with the theory that man originated from monkeys. He was uncommonly like one himself. His intellectual head in profile bore a remarkable resemblance to the ape—his brain swallowed his deep-set, penetrating eyes, short nose, and his thought-wrinkled face . . . I have heard writers advance the theory that men's facial expressions, and even the shape of their heads gradually take their expression and form from the subject with which they are mentally engrossed. But I only recollect one man myself could see an illustration of that absurd theory—and he was Darwin.—London Tit-Bits.

Happiness and Morality

The more we reflect, the more we find that happiness is exclusively a matter of moral life. Material enjoyments can scarcely contribute to it, as they end the weather increases the fear of the evil itself.—Jean Paul.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

WHY NOT RUBBED

Better than a mustard plaster

Here's the enemy to skin disorders!

RESINOL—a gentle, healing ointment that soothes its way into the pores and attacks the source of the trouble.

The first touch relieves the itching, burning and soreness and the skin usually gets well quickly and easily unless the trouble is due to some serious internal disorder. It is nearly flesh color so can easily be used on exposed surfaces. It costs little and goes a long way.

When the skin is once restored to its normal condition, the daily use of Resinol Soap is generally sufficient to keep it healthy. Ideal for the complexion, bath and shampoo.

Cardinals Need Good Infielders

Branch Rickey, Manager of St. Louis, Making No Claims for Pennant for His Team This Coming Season.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 16.—Show Branch Rickey the left side of an infield as a pitcher or so who can win more than ten games and he will show you a ball club. At least, that is how Branch himself views the matter.

"That's all I need," he said, with the manner of one who mentions a scarcity of sleeve garters. "With Bottomley on first base and Hornsby at second, it is hardly necessary to comment on the right side of the infield. They are the best two-man combination in baseball.

"My pitchers will have to do better. Allan Sothoron was the best last year and he won only ten games. I can't go anywhere with a staff like that."

More Experimenting.

In brief, Rickey will do more experimenting than the bright young man who is taking a post-graduate course in a barber school. For third base, he has Lester Bell, who hit .365 in the American Association last year. But Lester seems to have only a vague idea of the location of first base when making a throw and may have to be shifted to shortstop.

In that event he must do battle with one Cooney. And as Rickey says: "May the best man win."

Howard Freigau, ex-water boy, and George Toporcer, the man behind the spectacles, are candidates for third base. Toporcer is a fine utility man, but seems to be a trifle short of making the grade at steady employment. Freigau, like Bell, is inclined to throw them far away. Tommy Thevenow, ex-Syracuse shortstop, probably will not linger long. He can't hit the size of his neckband.

Outside of Sothoron, the Cards have prospective winners in the pitching averages, but their actual performance is open to doubt. Rated in the order of their importance, they are:

Cardinal Pitchers.

Walter "Dusty" Mails, who left-handed the Indians into a pennant with seven straight victories in 1920. He had a big year with Oakland and is said to be on his way back.

Flint Rhem, strikeout king of the Western Association last year.

Clyde Day, who pitched and won five double headers for Muskogee in 1924.

Southpaw Hallahan, of Kalamazoo; Shields, from Nova Scotia; Wigington, from New Haven, and Allyn Stout, a St. Louis semi-pro.

Holdovers on the staff are Eddie Dyer, Lee Dickerman, Bill Shordel, Jesse Haines, Johnny Stuart and Sothoron.

Of outfielders there is quantity without particular quality. The list includes Ray Blades, Heinie Mueller, Jack Smith, Roscoe Holm, Chick Hafey, a slugger from Houston; Taylor Douthit, from St. Joe; Ralph Shinners, ex-Giant from Toledo, and Charley Hughes, a callow young man from the University of Kentucky.

Mike Gonzales remains as dean of the catching corps, which shows not a new face. Charley Niebergall, Erne Vick and Al Beel make up the rest of the staff.

Games Tonight At St. Peter's

The Ellenville Wanderers will be the attraction at the St. Peter's Lyceum court this evening, opposing the St. Peter's Lyceum squad. The Ellenville Five has made a very good showing this season and the game tonight should prove very interesting.

The long string of victories of the Saints on their home court was broken by the Peekskill K. of C. quintet in the last game and tonight the Saints will attempt to start another winning column.

A very interesting preliminary game is also scheduled for this evening when the Chrysler Five tackles the St. Peter's Juniors. The Chryslers hold a win over the Young Saints and a speedy game is expected. The usual dancing and refreshments will follow.

Nurmi to Run On Outdoor Track

Flying Finn Will Perform Here in Coming Outdoor Season — May Beat His Two Mile Record Along With Others.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 16.—Indications today were that Paavo Nurmi, the gent with the body of a man and the legs of an antelope, will remain in this country for the outdoor track and field season with the laudable idea of establishing world's records at all distances between 880 yards and ten miles.

Strong pressure is being brought to bear upon the great Finn to reconsider his original intention of returning to Abo late next month and the latest advices were that he was about to capitulate.

If he does, one of his first appearances outdoors will be at the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival late in April at which time he will be asked to try to get under his world's record of 8:58 1-5, established less than 48 hours ago. The fact that Franklin Field has one of the fastest cinder paths in the world is said to be one of the determining factors in Nurmi's disposition to remain with us indefinitely.

He will never get a more favorable chance; since two mile running is almost obsolete abroad and the type of competition considerably below what America can and will furnish. Tentative plans for the race in question would place Jimmy Connolly, Verne Booth and other American distance stars out on generous handicaps and let nature take its course.

Whether Nurmi can better his indoor time is a moot question, since two miles can be stepped faster on the boards than on the cinders. One thing, however, is certain. He could have been as much as five seconds faster on Saturday night. He was far from pushed out to his limit and at one stage of the proceedings was unintentionally interfered with by Booth, who thought the Finn meant to pass him on the inside just at the moment the Finn elected to run around the American.

Nurmi's adviser, Hugo Quist, professes to have not the slightest doubt of Paavo's ability to run yards faster for two miles on any track.

"Nurmi can run closer to eight minutes than nine minutes," Quist said after the race. He seldom was run out to his best at any stage of the distance. This indicates to me that he can run a mile in four minutes or better and the in a least 1:50."

If Nurmi attempts these times, the indications are that he will select the Harvard Stadium track, probably the fastest in the world, for the races. Under just what auspices they will be held has not been divulged.

ST. MARY'S JUNIORS BEAT ARTISTIC FIVE

Friday night on St. Mary's court, the St. Mary's Juniors defeated the strong Artistic Five by the score of 34-16. The Artistics presented a strong line-up, among the quintet being Vogt of last year's high school varsity, but they were unable to cope with the Young Saints who showed an excellent brand of passwork. Noonan refereed the contest and his work was of the best.

The line-up:

St. Mary's Juniors.	F.G.	F.P.	Tot.
Joyce, l. f.	5	4	14
Long, r. f.	2	0	4
Gilday, c.	1	0	2
Clare, l. g.	1	5	7
Mooney, r. g.	2	3	7
	11	12	34

Score at half time was St. Mary's Juniors, 30; Artistics, 2.
